ANTI-SALOON DISPUTE GROWS BITTER

REPORT POLISH FLYERS APPROACHING AMERICA

STEAMER SEES PLANE AFTER NEARLY HALF OF TRIP COMPLETED

Arrival On Atlantic Coast Is Awaited; Destination In Doubt; Evidently Flew North Of Azores.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Polish trans-Atlantic flyers—Major Louis Idzikowski and Major Casimir Kubala—were still in flight towards the American coast and had completed nearly one-half the distance between Europe and the American continent, according to a wireless message received from the steamship Aztec. The Aztec wirelessed the Evening News that the plane had been sighted in the position of 44.22 north and 24.08 west.

The Aztec sighted the plane at 2:40 Greenwich mean time this morning, or 9:40 p. m. Friday, Eastern Standard time. If the airmen succeeded in maintaining the same rate of speed they had been making they should be sighted off the American coast some time during the morning. The Aztec reported the plane was flying high and apparently all was well.

The message from the Aztec—a Norwegian steamer—was picked up by the wireless station at Valentia, on the west coast of Ireland.

The position given by the steamship was approximately 250 miles north west of the Azores and nearly one half across the Atlantic, figuring in a straight line from the continent to the American coast line.

AMERICAN TEAM IS WINNER IN RELAYS AT OLYMPIC GAMES

French Beat Shell Crew; American Swimmer Leads

OLYMPIC STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, Aug. 4.—America's four-man relay team of Frank Wykoff, Jimmy Quinn, Charley Borah and Hank Russell, running in that order, won its heat rather impressively in the 400-meter relay race at the Olympic games today. Hungary, finishing second, didn't force the Americans to their best and suffered further by disqualification after the race, Switzerland being placed second. The Americans, evidently smarting under the series of defeats they have sustained in running races, finished the distance in 41:1.4, almost nipping the Olympic record of 41 seconds flat. America got off to a good start today in the aquatic competition when Austin Clapp, of Hollywood, Calif., won the first elimination heat in the 1,500 meter swim in 21 minutes and 31 seconds.

The Jap Takebayashi took second place in this heat. Ray Ruddy, of New York, finished second to Takebayashi of Japan in the next heat of the same event. The Jap's time was 21 minutes 20.4 seconds. Ruddy was a full length of the pool, 50 meters, behind the winner.

J. Kenneth Dougherty, of the Cadillac Athletic Club, Michigan, was tied with two contenders for second place in the 110 meters race of the modern Decathlon this afternoon. The contest was a series of the ups.

Viljoen, of South Africa, was tied with Javinn, of Finland, for first place. Their time was 15:3.5 seconds.

The European runners who tied Dougherty were Anderson, of Sweden, and Wesely, of Austria. Their time was 15:4.5 seconds. Lundgren, of Sweden, finished third in 16:1.5 seconds. Barth, of Germany, finished fourth in 16:2.5 seconds.

SLOTEN, Holland, Aug. 4.—Tasting defeat for the second time in two days, this time at the hands of a French crew, the American entries in the pair-oared shell with Coxswain event, Gus Goetz, Joe Dougherty and their fourteen-year-old coxswain, Tommy Mack, were eliminated from the Olympic regatta here today.

In a race rowed in pouring rain, the French trio led from the start and was never headed, finishing one length ahead in eight minutes and 37 seconds. The Americans, all members of the Penn A. C. were times in eight minutes 41.1-5 seconds, for the 3000 meter course.

BAD WEATHER FAILS TO HALT POLISH FLYERS

Despite unfavorable flying conditions, Majors Louis Idzikowski and Kazimir Kubala, of the Polish air service, were undaunted when they hopped off from La Bourget, France, for New York over the Azores route. Their plane is the Marszalek Pilsudski, named in honor of the Polish dictator. Kubala is in front and Idzikowski behind.

EQUALIZATION FEE MUST BE ENDORSED FARM BUREAU SAYS

Raskob's Excise Tax Substitute Has Been Rejected

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Neither Governor Alfred E. Smith nor Herbert Hoover will meet the present official view of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the largest farm organization, unless they flat-footedly endorse the equalization fee plan of the McNary-Haugen bill or suggest a better method, it was declared here today.

This appeared to be the situation after Chester H. Gray, legislative representative of the Farm Bureau and chief spokesman before the congressional committees for the McNary-Haugen bill, outlined for International News Service the bureau's position.

Police Chief M. E. Graham said Saturday he believed the boys had followed shows appearing at the Greene County Fair and employees of the various shows were notified to look for them.

REPUBLICANS PREPARE RADIO HOOK-UP FOR HOOVER ADDRESS

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 4.—A new form of campaign contribution will be brought to light through the use of the radio to broadcast the speech of Herbert Hoover accepting the Republican presidential nomination, it was learned today.

Local Republican organizations in various sections of the country will be asked to contribute to pay the cost of hooking up their local radio stations to the National Broadcasting system, employed to broadcast Hoover's speech across the country on August 11. A tremendous hook-up of stations, probably the greatest in history, will send the speech out to other parts of the country.

MOORE'S ACTION IS PROTESTED BY TWO MORE DRY LEADERS

League Chief Asked For Explanation Of Leaving Out Begg

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 4.—Names of Lester D. Hill, Bowling Green, a Wood County dry leader, and of Attorney Matthew L. Bigger, Columbus, a candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, today were added to the list of prominent Ohio supporters of the dry cause who publicly voiced vigorous exception to the issuance this week by Dr. E. J. Moore, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, of a "sample" ballot endorsing certain candidates for state offices.

This "sample" ballot endorsed the gubernatorial candidacies of Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati, Republican, and Martin L. Davey, Kent, and Earl Bloom, Bowling Green, Democrats, as well as various other candidates. Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky, a candidate for the G. O. P. gubernatorial nomination, and Bigger, among the candidates who failed to receive endorsement on this "sample" ballot.

Hill, who resides in Begg's home district, telegraphed Moore requesting an explanation for the failure to endorse Begg on this ballot, it was stated.

Recalling that the league's advisory committee recently endorsed both Begg and Cooper, Hill was credited with stating that, if the league's officials did not endorse the ballots, "trustees of the Anti-Saloon League reversed the action of their advisory committee."

Asserting that he was "sincere" in his support of the dry cause, Bigger, in an open letter, accused Superintendent Moore of "insincerity and such gross neglect as inequity amounts to fraud, or the utterance of a deliberate and malicious falsehood."

Bigger asked Moore to resign from the superintendency while Hill, it was stated, declared that "it is time that Moore and other officials at the league headquarters understand that they are not bosses but servants of the people."

The nominee will speak from a stand built across one end of the field. He will face into the field with only the Republican national notification committee and a number of personal friends seated behind him.

Hoover had his speech completed today and gave out copies in confidence to the newspapermen assigned to him. They were under a pledge not to reveal its contents before he begins speaking next Saturday afternoon. The prepared program fixed the time of his address at 4 o'clock.

Hoover expects to complete it within the forty minutes assigned to him on the radio.

The candidate spent this morning quietly at his home, free from callers and attempting to catch up on the correspondence that piled up during his fishing trip to the north woods. He was to leave his camp overnight.

He rode to the Bohemian Club's frolic tonight at Bohemian Grove, seventy-five miles north of San Francisco. He will remain at the frolic, although a stag affair, is the greatest social event of the west coast. There is a limited guest list and the fortunate ones come from all over the country to attend the event, called "high jinks."

Associate Supreme Court Judge Harlan F. Stone, Secretary of War Dwight Davis and Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan, will attend along with Hoover.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 4.—The condition of Senator-Elect William S. Vare, 60 of Philadelphia, was somewhat improved today, according to his personal physician, Dr. Ellwood Kirby, of Philadelphia.

OHIO'S POLITICAL ACTIVITIES REACH FEVER HEAT STAGE

Dry Endorsement Is Object Of Bitter Attacks

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 4.—With Ohio's statewide primary election only ten days away, activities among political candidates and their supporters were at the fever-heat stage today.

Charges and counter-charges, affecting the aspirations of various candidates for state and local offices, aided materially in the warming up process.

Indications are that the closing of the polls on Tuesday evening, August 14, will mark the termination of one of the most fervid primary campaigns in the history of the Buckeye State.

Public disapproval of the action of Dr. E. J. Moore, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, in issuing a "sample" ballot endorsing the candidacy of Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, and the candidacies of other aspirants for state offices featured developments in Ohio political circles this week.

C. L. Dickey, Columbus, treasurer of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League; Lester Hill, Bowling Green, Wood County dry leader, and E. R. Root, Medina, and Norman C. Shewwood, Fremont, prominent members of the league, were publicly credited with being among the active supporters of Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky, also seeking the issuance of the so-called Anti-Saloon League "sample" ballot.

Friends of Begg declared that the League's policy committee, at a session here some days ago, accorded equal endorsement to Begg and Cooper, because of their satisfactory record. The claim was made that issuance of the "sample" ballot was in violation of the instruction of the policy committee.

Considerable dissatisfaction, also, was registered by a number of candidates who were not endorsed on the "white" list issued this week by officials of the Ohio W. C. T. U. of the gubernatorial candidates this list gave its O. K. to Begg, Cooper and Shanley, Republicans, and to Davey and Bloom, Democrats.

Attorney Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati, a Democratic candidate for one of the U. S. senatorial nominations, was among the candidates who declared they did not receive a copy of the W. C. T. U. questionnaire. Officials of the organization replied that copies were mailed to all candidates.

OMAR HAGLER THROWN 35 FEET AS BRACE SLIPS

Sustains Serious Injuries While On Court House Job.

Omar A. Hagler, 49, 134 E. Third St., painter, sustained two fractures of the right leg and other serious injuries when he fell thirty-five feet from a scaffolding on which he was preparing to stand while painting window frames at the Court House at 10:15 a. m., Saturday.

The scaffold was suspended outside the windows of the office of Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy on the second floor north of the Detroit St. entrance.

The scaffold was slung between two window-jacks one of which was insecurely fastened to the inside of the window sill by means of bolts. Hagler was preparing to climb a ladder, which he had placed on the scaffold in order to reach the upper part of the window frame, when the bolt holding one jack slipped on the smooth marble inside window sill, releasing the platform.

Hagler plunged from his high perch, crashing on his hip on an iron railing which surrounded an outside basement opening. Instead of falling into the cemented opening, he rolled off the railing onto the lawn, a fact which may have averted more serious injury.

The exact extent of his injuries is still undetermined. After a preliminary examination by Dr. W. A. Galloway, who was in the Court House, Hagler was removed to McClellan Hospital in the J. H. Whitmer ambulance, where physicians made an examination Saturday noon and took X-ray pictures of the right leg, hip and back. He also complained of his left leg and may have internal injuries but did not lose consciousness.

Hagler was working with Roy Jones, who was just preparing to come out on the scaffold when the accident occurred.

MECHANIC DENIES MURDER OF WOMAN; ACCUSED OF CRIME

Girl's Nude Body Is Found In Ravine Near Hollywood.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 4.—Facing a charge of first degree murder, Russell S. Beitzel, former aviation mechanic, today continued to maintain his innocence of the slaying of Barbara Morrow, whose nude body was found in a North Hollywood ravine.

Auities, investigating the mystery, were prepared to go into the city jail cell where Beitzel is being held and subject the prisoner to another severe examination.

Beitzel's account, given to police during a prolonged questioning, was the basis upon which the murder complaint was formally filed against him.

According to the former mechanic's story, he had met the girl in Philadelphia while she was a waitress and he an employee of a department store. They decided to journey to Los Angeles together, Beitzel said, and arriving here, lived as man and wife.

In leaving Philadelphia, Beitzel is said to have informed police, he abandoned a wife and two children, whose address was given by the prisoner as 155 N. 19th St. in the Pennsylvania city.

The Pennsylvania man, according to officials, admitted having gone to the vicinity where Mrs. Morrow's nude body was discovered. One day, he is said to have told questioners, he borrowed a revolver and drove to the scene, where he engaged in target practice.

ENSEMBLES BEST EXPRESS MODE

Fashion experts have been practically unanimous in deciding that the ensemble best expresses the mid-summer, as it did the spring, mode. At the left is a three-piece dress ensemble employing silk faille in solid color and an imported coin dot print. The suit at the right combines a coat of transparent velvet with a dress of printed chiffon. The coat is bound with moire ribbon with a velvet bow pertly attached to the left shoulder.

Romance Isn't Dead—Quite

Maybe George D. Noebeling, Greenwich Village habitue and scion of wealthy Philadelphia family, is a throwback to the age of chivalry—or something. At any rate he fought a duel for his "lady fair" and then tried to take his life because he couldn't get a job as an actor. The lady in question, Billy Netcong, is pictured consoling him in Knickerbocker Hospital, whither he was taken after leaping 75 feet to the hard pavement in Morningside Park. He's going to recover, marry Bill and live happily ever after.

FRIENDS SAVE RICH TABOR MINE AFTER LEGAL DISPUTES

DENVER, Aug. 4.—A story of romance, composed of an intermingling of luck, pride, grief, wealth and poverty, was retold here recently when Mrs. H. A. V. Tabor, widow of Senator Tabor, pioneer Colorado builder, miner and financier, made her last stand in her seventh apparently successful attempt to save the Matchless gold mine, located "on the hill" at Leadville, Colorado.

The Matchless Mine in the early days was one of the biggest producers of gold ore in Colorado. From its depths came the amassed fortune of H. A. V. Tabor, at one time a man of great wealth. At his death came reverses, the large estate dwindled, and now, Mrs. Tabor has been forced to appeal to the kindness of friends to save for her the Matchless Mine from the auction block.

Pay Off Mortgage
Mrs. J. J. Brown, whose husband also made a large fortune "on the hill" in Leadville, came proudly to the assistance of Mrs. Tabor. The two women met by chance in Leadville last winter and since then have cultivated a warm friendship. Mrs. Brown told Mrs. Tabor she would raise the $14,000 necessary to pay off a mortgage past due on the Matchless.

Since Mrs. Tabor's husband's death, she has lived in a one room hovel near her mine. She seemed to be happy in her sorrow, poverty and solitude. Six times before she has been forced to make desperate attempts to refinance the Matchless Mine in the hope that some day it would again become a producer of the yellow metal.

Friend in Need
The six attempts have been successful, but never before has it been forced to seek the aid of friends. It was a severe blow to Tabor pride, but a gallant opportunity for Mrs. J. J. Brown to show her "miner hospitality" to a fellow in need.

Mrs. Brown, known widely in exclusive social circles in this country and European capitals as "The Unsinkable," is a survivor of the Titanic disaster off the Atlantic coast nearly a score of years ago. She is reputed to be wealthy, and spends much of her time in Newport, Palm Beach and New York City.

CIVIC LEAGUE NOTES

Most housekeepers, even with the daily use of vacuum cleaners, feel that certain periods in the year should be devoted to housecleaning. Such a period in Xenia city-keeping is near at hand. We want to look our best for our guests of Home-Coming Week and, with a view to this end, the Civic League is deputed by the Civic Clearing House to plan a city-wide clean-up.

With this end in view, a large committee with Mrs. James B. Watt as chairman, will suggest methods by which this work can be speedily and thoroughly done. The League asks that our citizens cheerfully co-operate with this committee, members of which will present their plans to you within a few days. It is desirable to have this clean-up completed before August 20, hence it will be a good idea to begin at once to cut weeds, trim trees, carry away piles of ashes and rubbish, edge up the flower beds cut off dried bloom stalks, in fact, get busy and beautify your own premises to such an extent that your neighbor may be incited to follow your example and thus make Xenia more beautiful.

YOUTHFUL ROBBER SHOT BY OFFICER

When Brooks sighted the two men, whom he accuses of robbing him and the policeman put them under arrest, one tried to draw a knife. Hoffman said the policeman shot the youth who gave his name as Anthony Dolinar, 20, while the other, a boy of 16, submitted.

DISMISS LIQUOR CASES AFTER W. C. T. U. NOTE WARNS JUDGE

LEBANON, O., Aug. 4.—Cases of seven alleged bootleggers have been dismissed by Judge Charles C. White, Batavia, sitting by appointment on the Warren County common pleas bench, at the request of the prosecutor because of a note received by the trial judge from W. C. T. U. informing him that "convictions are expected." It was revealed here today.

According to Prosecutor C. D. Dilatash, he requested the dismissal after he saw the note which Judge White had received. The note read: "We are here and convictions are expected." The note was signed by Mrs. Harshbarger, president of the W. C. T. U. The note had been handed Judge White by a court bailiff, so under the circumstances I could do nothing other than ask the dismissal."

Judge White told him, Prosecutor Dilatash said, that "never in all my years on the bench have I ever encountered anything similar." Dilatash believes the only reason there were not contempt proceedings was because Judge White was a foreign magistrate and did not wish to create a scene.

Following the lunacy hearing in Probate Court, Curl was ordered confined in the Dayton hospital. Curl protested that he wanted to engage an attorney. While the necessary papers for his removal to the Dayton institution were being prepared, the court room was thrown into a commotion when O. A. Hagler, painter fell from a scaffolding to the ground just outside the Court House.

Sheriff Ohmer Tate and O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman, who with Deputy Sheriff George Sugden, had been standing guard over the prisoner, rushed outside the building to assist the injured man.

Curl also became agitated by the accident. Taking advantage of the fact the attention of court attaches was diverted Curl suddenly dashed out of the courtroom.

After visiting an attorney, he returned to the courtroom voluntarily but later made another break for liberty. He engaged in a scuffle with Deputy Sheriff Sugden and the pair was having a hard time to hand struggle on the floor when other officers summoned by court attaches, overpowered him. Sugden's shirt was torn up the back and he received a long scratch on the shoulder as a reminder of the struggle.

Man and handcuffed the colored man and made immediate preparations for his removal to Dayton.

FRED FISHERING RECALLS MOLLIE JOHNSON AT MARKET STREET SCHOOL

Who remembers when Teacher Mollie Johnson taught the first grade at the old Market St. school? Fred E. Fisher, Bakersfield, Calif., former Xenian, remembers and speaks of those days in the letter he has written T. H. Zell, general chairman of the Greene County Home-Coming, in response to an invitation to the affair.

Maybe some of his contemporaries recall the poem from McGuffey's old fourth reader, of which he quotes a verse in the following letter:

My Dear Mr. Zell:
Your kind invitation to the Home-Coming in August came to my desk today. It has touched me keenly for when I look carefully, one by one, over these names on your executive committee list and then take myself back "thirty years ago" and see these men as boys, there can but be a feeling of sentiment that only a Greene County bred man can experience.

The roster contains the names of boyhood playmates—it harkens back to the days of the old Market St. school where Mollie Johnson started us off in the first year grade and gave us that precious thing which is a heritage—an education.

And here I pause, as the familiar poem in our old McGuffey's Fourth Reader comes into my mind: "I've wandered to the village Tom, I've sat beneath the Tree— Upon the village playground Tom, That sheltered you and me. But few are left to greet you Tom, And few are left to know: Who played with us upon the green, Just forty years ago."

Nothing in the world would please me more than to have my business affairs in such a shape that I might come back to the old home town, bring my family and "their family" and join in the celebration—but us Californians are loath to leave our Yosemite which is only a short day's drive from Bakersfield with paved highway every inch of the way—to take so long a trip back to Xenia—not that we do not love our birthplace but time is an element which figures largely in such a trip.

My vacation period, already arranged for, is of two weeks' duration only, and my position as publicity manager precludes any possible extension (no doubt Frank Smith will be able to tell you how hard it is for an advertising man to get away at all).

But may I do this—I shall keep this invitation where I can see it every day—and when August 26-27, 28 and 29 comes around, I shall each day silently commune with you and the dear old friends and in spirit join in wishing you all a long, long life and happiness.

Kindly give my deepest personal regards to everyone and to my brother, Horace, at your earliest possible convenience and accept my profound regrets that I shall not be able to attend the festivities.

Sincerely yours,
(signed) Fred E. Fisher

Teacher: "What is the most difficult thing to learn about farming?"
Student: "To get up at 5 a. m."

We had 685 guesses on the pen of White Rocks at our booth at the Fair. Mrs. Harry Hagler was the winner with one of the four guesses of 14 lbs. 10 ozs. The actual weight at The Babb Hardware Store was 14 lbs. 10 1/2 ozs. at 5:00 p. m. Friday. There were three others besides Mrs. Hagler who guessed the 14 lbs. 10 ozs. necessitating a drawing among the four guessers. The nearest guess above the correct weight was one of 14 lbs. 11 1/2 ozs.

Toledo Driver Enjoys Field Day At Friday Races

PLAXICO WINS TWICE AND TAKES SECOND MONEY ONCE IN EVENTS

Royal Guy Shows Heels In 2:18 Trot For $1,000 Stake And Wagner Cup; Sabina Horse Wins Pacing Event

R. B. Plaxico, Toledo, O., grand circuit driver, had a banner afternoon on the closing program of the Southwestern Ohio Shortship Circuit meet at the Greene County Fair Friday, accounting for two winners and one second money in the three events.

Somewhat the best of a field of seven starters, Royal Guy, a bay gelding owned by Roy E. Davis, Toledo, and driven by Plaxico, won the 2:18 trotting stake race for a $1,000 purse, feature event on the card, and the owner was also awarded a loving cup by the L. A. Wagner Jewelry Store.

The Toledo trotter, an overwhelming favorite, took the first heat impressively in 2:11 flat, but broke badly at the last turn in the second heat and finished sixth. This heat was won by Major Merrill, of the H. M. Marshall stables at Urbana. In the third and deciding heat, Plaxico permitted Major Merrill to set the pace until the stretch and then Royal Guy won out in a stirring finish, traversing the mile route in 2:10 1/4.

The silks of J. F. Cartnall, Newark, O., flashed triumphantly to victory twice in the Free-for-all pace for a $400 purse, which was captured by Prue Grattan, a black mare, in straight heats from a field of five horses. Plaxico also drove this winner. Jackie O'Connor, also of the Cartnall stables and driven by Cartnall, came in second each heat. In each heat Prue Grattan let one or more of the other pacers show the way until the stretch.

Prue Grattan made the best time of the afternoon, running the heats in 2:08 3/4, 2:08 1/4 and 2:08 1/2.

Another highlight in the remaining event on the card when Peter Patch, a bay gelding owned by H. G. Chaney, Sabina, and driven by Craig, defeated five other starters to win the 2:18 pace and $300 purse in straight heats.

Peter Patch won each heat by a hurricane finish. During the running of the heats the favorite's backers had quite a few attacks of the heebie-jeebies for Peter Patch and again laid behind the leaders and did not seem able to overhaul the pace-setters until the last 100 yards. Then would come the glittering climax. Like a thunderbolt the pacer would shoot along the outside of the field and dash on to victory.

Second place in each heat went to Barney Burke, owned by O. W. Crane, agent, Marion, O., and driven by Plaxico. Summaries:

The 2:18 Trot (Stake)

Purse $1,000.
Royal Guy, b. g., by Guy Axworthy (Plaxico) 1 1 1
Major Merrill, blk. g., by Waponee (Parshall) 7 1 2
Tamerlane, r. g., by Joyzoff (Henrick) 3 2 3
Lee Volo, b. g., by Peter Volo (Roush) 2 4 4
Black Light, blk. g., by Binville (Sargent) 4 3 5

NOTES OF THE RACES

The Southwestern Ohio Shortship Circuit three-day meeting at the Greene County Fair came to a close Friday with the crowd again of large proportions and the weather of the ideal summery variety.

The fact that not a single horse entered in any of the three events on the Friday program was a scratched is worthy of comment. The fields were comparatively small but competition was nevertheless keen. A. E. Staup, Tippicanoe City, who is a barber in private life, handled the flag for the second straight year and his work drew favorable mention.

Favorites came through true to form in each race and two events were marked by straight heat victories. The stake event would probably also have been a straight heat victory for that sterling trotter, Royal Guy, had not the Toledo-owned horse broke badly on the last turn in the second heat while leading the field.

It was "Plaxico Afternoon" Friday. R. B. Plaxico, Toledo, O., grand circuit driver, drove two horses for a finish in first place and one for second money, giving him a field day. Plaxico drove Royal Guy to victory in the stake feature and won with Prue Grattan in straight heats in the free-for-all pace. He finished second with Barney Burke in each heat of the 2:18 pace.

Dr. H. H. Smith, Oxford, O., whose trotter, Tamerlane, finished for third money in the stake race, told the fair officials he had been racing for the last fifty-one years, but, although Oxford is only sixty-five miles away, had never before raced on the Xenia half-mile oval.

Between heats fair patrons were entertained with music furnished by the New Burlington Community Band. The band lived up to the reputation for high class music established during the preceding two days.

No accidents of even a minor nature marred the three days of racing. Small fields for the most part reduced the possibility of mishaps to the minimum.

Chief interest at the fair races this year centered upon the revival of stake racing, which brought about faster time and the entry of a better grade of pacers and trotters, and of which are familiar to patrons of grand circuit tracks. The outstanding feature of the meeting was the lowering of Xenia track record on the opening day, the new mark being 2:06 1/2. This eclipsed the old record by three-fourths of a second.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

GIANTS APPEARING AS STRONGEST FOE OF LEADING CARDS

Defeat Cincinnati Late In Contest On Friday

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—If the St. Louis Cardinals can subdue New York in their crucial series starting here tomorrow, many experts will be ready to concede the pennant to the Red Birds, for the Giants have demonstrated clearly in the past two weeks that they are the best of the other contenders.

While the Cardinals were bowling over the Phillies and Braves and getting an even break in Brooklyn, they fattened their batting average to .302, only three points below Pittsburgh. The Giants, meanwhile took three out of four from Chicago and two straight from Cincinnati. They clinched second place and stayed within six games of St. Louis by losing out the Reds yesterday, 7 to 5, while small William Sherdel hurled the Cards to a 5 to 1 win over Boston.

The Cubs advanced to third place by outslugging Brooklyn, 8 to 5. They kayeed Jumbo Elliott in the third inning and scored seven runs.

In the American League Philadelphia's ten-game winning streak was snapped by Cleveland and the Red Sox shattered Chicago's six-game winning spurt. The Mackmen lost a chance to gain on the Yankees, who were whitewashed 8 to 0 by Sam Gray of the St. Louis Browns. Murderer in 21 innings denied the batting average has and the team's batting average has shrunk to .303. Walter Hoyt, the league's leading pitcher, was Gray's victim.

It was the first time since 1925 that the Browns had won a series from the Yanks.

Connie Mack hurled eighteen players into the breach in a desperate effort to beat Cleveland, but five pinch hitters, including Grandpa Ty Cobb, rowdies Tris Speaker and Uncle Eddie Collins, were set down by Hudlin and Shaute.

Big Ed Morris hurled the Red Sox to a 3 to 1 triumph over Chicago. Sam Jones of Washington held Detroit to five hits while the Nats pounded out a 9 to 3 win.

The paralyzed Phils were revived and sent on the field to be slaughtered by the Pirates, again, 14 to 6. Pie Traynor got five of Pittsburgh's nineteen hits.

HARNESS CIGARS BEAT CENTRAL HIGH IN NATIONAL LOOP GAME

Running true to scheduled form, the Harness Cigars for the third time this season defeated Central High School by a one-run margin, posting out a 13 to 12 victory by springing a three-run rally in the ninth inning in a National League softball game Friday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

Time and again Central High had the game literally in the bag, only to have the league-leaders crawl back on even terms. The contest in some respects was one of the best, and in some respects, one of the most ragged of the season. The teams played good, bad and indifferent softball.

The victory practically clinched the National League championship for Harness as the leaders could lose one of their remaining three games and still win the title.

Home runs, many of them, by both teams, accounted for a majority of the runs. Neither Boxwell, Harness hurler, nor Doak, Central pitcher, were effective.

Central held a 7 to 2 lead at the end of the third inning but Harness put over five runs to tie the count in the fourth. Central went out in front again by tallying five times in the sixth. The leaders gradually cut down the advantage, scoring once in each of the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds and then winning out by a three-run rally in the ninth.

Central lineup: Higzins, 2b; Bell, 1b; Smittle, 3b; Gibney, ss; Doak, p; Buell, lf; Tull, c; Monroe, rf; Michael, cf; Bice, rf; Hurley, cf.

Harness lineup: Shaw, rf; Seall, 2b; Smith, 3b; Leopold, cf; Fuller, lf; Bottorff, ss; A. Boxwell, cf; Cain, 1b; P. Boxwell, p; P. Fuller, cf.

Score by innings:
Central 232 005 000—12
Harness 110 501 113—13

Everett Burnett, Jamestown, charged with the theft of an auto belonging to his brother, Carmen, escaped prosecution before R. O. Copsey, justice of the peace, Saturday morning when the brother withdrew the charge upon the agreement of Burnett to pay the costs of the case.

The auto, which had not been damaged, was recovered for the owner. Burnett was arrested at West Union, O., and returned to Xenia, where he pleaded not guilty to the auto theft charge before Magistrate Copsey. His hearing was held Saturday morning.

The Yankees are either in a big slump or they are expert at kidnapping. They are losing games so fast they've made the Phils look good.

And then something happened. Now they've dropped enough tilts to make the American an eight-club league again.

The fall of the Roman empire was a classy tumble, but compared to the Yanks' toe-stubbing act it was just a mild stagger.

The New Yorkers do everything big. They even know how to lose magnificently.

If the Yankees are really kidding they shouldn't forget one thing. It's the kind of joke that won't last until October.

GIRL TURNS DOWN $2,000,000 DOWRY FOR JOB AS ACTRESS

By CLARK KINNAIRD
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

XENIA, Aug. 4.—Pity the poor movie press agent! He's so addicted to invention and so full of publicity tricks that when he tells the truth no one believes him.

There was the instance of the death-defying rescue of Fay Wray by Gary Cooper while they were on location in the wilds of Maryland. Fay fell in and became entangled in some fishing nets. Gary jumped in with all his clothes on and barely managed to save her. When the company press agent learned about it some hours later and offered the story by long distance telephone to nearby newspapers, editors laughed at him and said, "Heh, heh! That's an old one. Why don't you trot out press agent plot No. 679, the jewel robbery story, too?"

And there is the romantic incident, of recent occurrence, in the life of Raquel Torres, beautiful young Mexican actress, who makes her debut in the forthcoming pictorialization of Frederick O'Brien's famous book, "White Shadows in the South Seas."

The cinerama was made on the island of Tahiti, with natives enacting all of the roles except Raquel Torres. In typical South Sea fashion, without so much as asking the lady's consent, he approached the picture producers, whom he understood to be Raquel's guardians, and formally requested her hand in marriage.

He would, he declared, make her his queen and bestow upon her his collection of pearls. The pearls, he added, were pretty baubles, but he didn't particularly care for them, and possibly the lady would like them.

Two millions in pearls! Raquel Torres almost fainted when she heard of the offer.

Very gracefully, so as not to offend the chief's feelings and possibly alienate his interest in the picture with the resultant withdrawal of the natives from participation in its making, Raquel and her guardians declined the chief's offer.

When the company got back to the United States and the story was told, there were smiles all around. "Another press agent story," it was said. And Raquel, remembering the $2,000,000 in pearls,

Well, Chief Mehevi came to know the white visitors and he was especially well disposed toward Raquel Torres. In typical South Sea fashion, without so much as asking the lady's consent, he approached the picture producers, whom he understood to be Raquel's guardians, and formally requested her hand in marriage.

He would, he declared, make her his queen and bestow upon her his collection of pearls. The pearls, he added, were pretty baubles, but he didn't particularly care for them, and possibly the lady would like them.

A Romance of the Footlights

by ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Mary James, eighteen, sweet and clever and good, has an ambition to go on the stage because her mother, who died the night she was born, had been a famous opera star. In New York Janet meets Dr. Ballard Riley, who is known as a woman hater. Ballard dates her up, and Janet gets a lot of fun out of having a date with him. Janet meets Flavia Marlowe, Sir Henry Martindale and "Putty" Bigelow. Flavia, about fifty years old, is beginning to wrinkle and trying to hide it. She is wealthy, and has a studio in the Village. Flavia persuades Janet to lease a studio. It is Janet's first evening in her new home, and she is entertaining Flavia and her friends. Later there is a knock at the door, and Ballard Riley steps in.

In Flavia's words, Ballard threw a wet blanket on the party the minute he came in. After the guests depart, Ballard lectures Janet for taking up with the "Putty" Bigelow, boy friend of Flavia, makes an unexpected call on Janet. He grabs Janet around the waist and lifts her up, attempting to kiss her.

Flavia follows "Putty" in, and there is a scene when she accuses Janet of trying to vamp her boy friend. Janet is astonished, because she has been trying to persuade "Putty," whom she dislikes, to leave the studio. Flavia bursts into tears and stamps out of the room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVI.

Ballard was decidedly proud of his bachelorhood, and intended that nothing should interfere with his freedom. As long as Janet kept her head he'd pal around with her. But the minute she showed any sentiment, he was out of the picture.

Both were busy with their thoughts as they drove up town. Janet watched him from the corner of her eye, and thought how handsome and strong he looked. She thought how strange were the ways of love, and marveled at the emotion that filled her heart, sitting there so close to the man she loved. She wondered if he read her thoughts—and would have given a year of her life to know what he was thinking about.

Suddenly her heart turned cold. Suppose he would never love her. Suppose she were just a little nobody to him. Could it be possible that she could love him so and he not care for her? She moved her hand so that it touched his sleeve. A warm wave of emotion surged through her body and surprised her so that she sat bolt upright.

He turned and smiled. "What is the matter? Did you think I was going to hit that cab?"

"Oh, I—I just thought of something. I—I don't believe I locked the door."

He laughed and called her little fuss-butter, and promised to look behind all the furniture when they go back.

They ate almost in silence. Once he asked her why she was so sensitive, and she told him he wasn't exactly a gay dinner partner himself. She accounted for her quiet as being a let-down from the night before, and he told her of a very sick patient who had kept him beside his bed all night.

When they reached the studio Ballard reached his brain for a good excuse to go back to the hospital. She was too appealing. He cursed himself for a fool to let himself in for an evening alone with such a prospect. Janet was thrilled with the prospect of her first evening with him alone in her own home.

She flung the door open and threw her hat on the table.

"I can't make you a high ball—hardly. What do you drink, milk?" He grinned.

"No stimulant is necessary in the presence of so charming a lady."

Ballard sat down on the divan, and Janet, with her feet curled up under her like an Indian, sat at the other end.

"You say the cutest things! It's a shame you have had so much experience. It must take the edge off your dates."

"What a funny thing to say!" He wrinkled his brow thoughtfully. "Just what do you mean by that?"

"Oh, I mean you know all about what a girl is thinking—and possibly just what she is going to say next, etc. I should think it wouldn't be half as much fun as being dumb, like I am."

Ballard threw back his head and laughed.

"Heaven forbid that you are not dumb as a fox in the first place—and in the second place—how can a man know what a woman is going to do or say next when she doesn't even know herself until it's too late!"

"Oh you are another man who believes women are mad creatures of wild impulse!"

He shook his head gravely. "You are mad as March hares, every one of you."

Janet laughed. "That's funny! We christened my studio 'The March Hare' last night. I had just broken a bottle of ginger ale over the fireplace when you came. Flavia calls her place 'The White Pup,' after her dog."

Ballard raised his hands. "I give up. You Villagers are plain nuts!"

"Oh, thanks for the compliment. So I am a real Villager now, and have the ear marks. I'm sure glad to hear it."

"What is there about this dirty, God-forsaken place down here that appeals to so many people, I wonder? For instance, to a well-bred, brainy girl like you. I'd like to know the secret."

Janet looked as serious as a little old lady.

"Oh, people really live down here. They are so frank and well, they aren't ashamed of life. That is the way I want to be."

He wanted to laugh. But kept his face straight.

"That's it, is it? Well, Janet, let me tell you that this rot is no more life than a painting is the real thing. Seventy-five per cent of these people down here are using their so-called art to cover their indiscretions. Art, what crimes, are committed in this name."

Before she had time to protest, he asked:

"But who is this Flavia you speak of? The woman with the young lover?"

Janet's eyes widened.

"How did you know they were friends?"

"You say the cutest things," said Janet.

standard. A real man gives a woman as much right to live her life as he would himself. That old idea that men don't marry women they know pretty well is all bunk. A modern man doesn't feel that way about it—if he is at all fair."

"Then you think the man in the play could really go back to the woman he had loved when they were young, and marry her, and they could be happy?"

He smiled, humoring her.

"Of course. She was no more guilty than he was."

Janet hung on his every word, eagerly. She was an ardent listener, and Ballard Riley kept on. He explained so many of her old ideas and ideals away that at the end of a few moments she wondered where she had ever heard such old-fashioned things, anyway. He made life look so different!

The Theater

By FLEET SMITH

NEW YORK, August 4.—Every now and then something happens to upset ideas and bring the show business back into line. One of the fundamentals is that if you show a better picture, or build a better mousetrap, the world will beat a path to your door. But this can be forgotten very easily when the mercury spurts up across the 90 mark and the ticket seller begins to wail about the summer slump.

This bluff about a summer slump has engaged a staff of musicians and composers and has set them to work on accompaniments for pictures about to be released. These musicians include some of the best known in the United States.

The extent to which the film industry has turned toward sound is indicated interestingly in the records of the patent office in Washington. Inventors see the future in sound pictures, and they have jumped to it even faster than the producers. There are sixty-one different devices for sound reproduction of moving picture talk and effects on file in the patent office. But that was reported several days ago, and the number may have gone to a hundred by now.

But gross receipts for the picture the opening weekend were the greatest in the history of the house. Total receipts for Saturday and Sunday were nearly $1000 greater than any previous weekend since the opening, winter or summer. That might be called beating a path with a vengeance.

There was the added attraction of sound, of course. It was a novelty. No other picture with sound accompaniment ever had been shown in the theater. And also it was a good picture. The New York Yankee baseball team attended the showing and were as enthusiastic over the picture as a crowd of sandlot kids. It had to be good to draw on a week like that with the title, "Warming Up."

Used as a theme-song in "Warming Up" is one of the most popular of current ballads, "Out of the Dawn," by Walter Donaldson. It has been heard on the radio almost nightly and has been whistled across the continent. The song is an indication of how things will go after sound pictures get firmly established. The big producing companies announce that special scores will be composed originally for all feature pictures, so making the opening of a picture as important from the musical as from the film standpoint. WHITEHALL FARM TAKES FIRST PRIZE FOR BEEF CATTLE AT FAIR

First prizes in the beef and dairy cattle displays which featured the livestock and 4-H Club parades at noon Friday at the eighty-ninth annual Greene County Fair, were awarded respectively to Whitehall farm, Yellow Springs, and the Breezy Hill dairy farm, Madisonville, O.

The Brockett Farms, Atwater, O., captured second prize in the beef cattle display. Runner-up honors in the dairy breed display went to Charles Wheeler, Wapakoneta, O.

Five or six herds of Jersey cattle and about the same number of shorthorns were exhibited.

First prize of $10 and second prize of $5 were awarded for the best beef and dairy herds.

For organization floats in the Boys' and Girls' 4-H Club parade, which also took place in front of the grandstand after the livestock display Friday, first prize of $10 was awarded the Thimble Stitches Sewing Club of Spring Valley; second prize of $5 to the combined food and clothing clubs of Cedarville; third prize of $5 to the New Burlington Busy Bee Sewing Club; and fourth prize of $5 to the Cassarcreek Busy Bee Sewing Club.

The Jamestown Jolly Juniors and Yellow Springs Busy Bee sewing clubs also entered floats in the parade.

The floats were each decorated with club colors with green and white predominating. A number of other private autos were also loaded with young club members and it is estimated that more than 200 children participated in the parade.

The cattle judging was in charge of George Martindale, Cedarville, judge of dairy cattle and George Raub, La Rue, O., judge of beef cattle. These men, assisted by a Miss Clark, also awarded prizes for the organization floats.

Bringing up the rear of the procession was N. N. Hunter, Jamestown auto dealer and sportsman, astride "Midnight," a coal black donkey. Mr. Hunter, keeping a stiff upper lip, made good his promise to County Commissioner A. E. Beam that he would ride the "jack" in the parade. The donkey was furnished by Mr. Beam.

Mr. Hunter was presented with a vase of flowers taken from the secretary's office by R. U. Bell, treasurer of the fair board. The Jamestown man had difficulty in frustrating an attempt by his "mount" to eat the flowers.

GEORGE A. MURRAY DIES THURSDAY IN BOSTON HOSPITAL

Aurora, Illinois.

Mr. F. L. Smith: Your invitation to the Home-Coming Association at hand, I can not at this time say I will come on account of sickness in the family, however things may clear up by the time of the meeting. If so and my health permits, I will be there. I was ten years old when I left Xenia in 1852. I still have a warm place in my heart for the old town. He is a Civil War veteran and enjoys joining with other Ohioans in reviving memories of his home state, when visiting in Florida. His letter below is followed by another received by T. H. Zell, general chairman, from C. M. Van Pelt, who regrets ill health keeps him from attending the affair.

Should old Ohio be forgot and scenes we left behind? No! Wherever be our lot we keep them still in mind. The scenes 'mid which we often roved in childhood's early morn. The old red schoolhouse on the hill, the cot where we were born.

Then hail the dear old Buckeye State, for go where'er we will, whatever be our local fate, we are her children still. We'll give her every honor due, nor shall our love grow cold. However much we love the new, we'll not forget the old.

Dear Brother Zell:
I am just in receipt of your invitation to the "Greene County Home Coming." I deeply appreciate the invitation and should be delighted indeed again to meet with the people of Greene County and especially those of Trinity Church where I spent five of the most delightful years of my ministry.

However, I am now nearly seventy-one years old, and while my general health is fairly good my nervous condition is such as to make it quite unwise for me to meet and mingle with crowds of people. Therefore, I must with sincere regret decline your kind invitation. I trust you may have a most delightful "Home-Coming." With all kind wishes to you and to all, I am

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) C. M. Van Pelt.

Farm Notes

FREIGHT RATES OFF

Farmers of this country will pay less freight on their fertilizer after October 5, as a result of a decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission rendered recently, says W. W. Anderson, of the Greene County Farm Bureau. The rate reduction varies with the distance which the fertilizer is shipped, ranging from 90 cents to $1.20 with an average over Ohio, of a little more than a dollar, he reports.

The Commission's order to lower freight rates on fertilizer resulted from a complaint entered by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation more than four years ago. Mr. Anderson says. It has been the subject of several public hearings, and was finally combined with complaints of other state farm bureaus and of fertilizer manufacturers which were made later.

Farmers of this section have been paying a higher freight rate on fertilizer than farmers of the South and West for a number of years. Mr. Anderson reports. It was this difference in rates that was used as the chief argument in favor of the reduction, coupled with the fact that increased use of fertilizer resulting from the lower price would increase crop yields.

and in turn the movement of farm commodities to market.

The new rate, affected by the Commission's order will apply on fertilizer moving to farmers of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and parts of Kentucky. Based on the quantity used in 1920, it means a saving of more than $300,000 annually to Ohio farmers, and of somewhat smaller amounts to farmers of Indiana and Michigan.

REPORT POLISH FLYERS APPROACHING AMERICA

STEAMER SEES PLANE AFTER NEARLY HALF OF TRIP COMPLETED

Arrival On Atlantic Coast Is Awaited; Destination In Doubt; Evidently Flew North Of Azores.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Polish trans-Atlantic flyers—Major Louis Idzikowski and Major Casimir Kubala—were still in flight towards the American coast and had completed nearly one-half the distance between Europe and the American continent, according to a wireless message received from the steamship Aztec. The Aztec wirelessly the Evening News that the plane had been sighted in the position of 44.22 north and 23.08 west.

The Aztec sighted the plane at 2:40 Greenwich mean time this morning, or 9:40 p. m. Friday, Eastern Standard time. If the airmen succeeded in maintaining the same rate of speed they had been making they should be sighted off the American coast some time during the morning. The Aztec reported the plane was flying high and apparently all was well.

The message from the Aztec—a Norwegian steamer—was picked up by the wireless station at Valentia, on the west coast of Ireland.

The position given by the steamship was approximately 250 miles north west of the Azores and nearly one half across the Atlantic, figuring in a straight line from the continent to the American coast line.

AMERICAN TEAM IS WINNER IN RELAYS AT OLYMPIC GAMES

French Beat Shell Crew; American Swimmer Leads

OLYMPIC STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, Aug. 4.—America's four-man relay team of Frank Wykoff, Jimmy Quinn, Charles Borah and Hank Russell, running in that order, won its heat rather impressively in the 400-meter relay race at the Olympic games today. Hungary, finishing second, didn't force the Americans to their best and suffered further by disqualification after the race, Switzerland being placed second. The Americans, evidently smarting under the series of defeats they have sustained in running races, finished the distance in 41.14, almost nipping the Olympic record of 41 seconds flat.

America got off to a good start today in the aquatic competition when Austin Clapp, of Hollywood, Cal., won the first elimination heat in the 1,500 meter swim in 21 minutes and 31 seconds.

The Jap Takebayashi took second place in this heat.

Ray Ruddy, of New York, finished second to Takebayashi of Japan in the next heat of the same event. The Jap's time was 21 minutes 20.4 seconds. Ruddy was a full length of the pool, 50 meters, behind the winner.

J. Kenneth Dougherty, of the Cadillac Athletic Club, Michigan, was tied with two contenders for second place in the 110 meters race of the modern Decathlon this afternoon. The contest was a series of tie-ups.

PATIENT DIES IN DENTIST'S CHAIR

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 4.—Arrangements to take the body of Stanton Ruthrauff, 37, Columbus, traveling salesman, to Chicago for burial were being made here today. Ruthrauff died in a dentist's chair here yesterday after having taken gas for the extraction of a tooth.

He apparently revived from the anaesthetic, Dr. L. H. Kaufmann, the dentist, told police, but collapsed a short time later and died of acute dilatation of the heart. Efforts with a breathing machine proved futile.

Ruthrauff was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Bessie Ruthrauff, at the time. His mother, Mrs. Frank Mach, of Kalamazoo, Mich., also survives.

BAD WEATHER FAILS TO HALT POLISH FLYERS
Despite unfavorable flying conditions, Majors Louis Idzikowski and Kazimir Kubala, of the Polish air service, were undaunted when they hopped off from La Bourget, France, for New York over the Azores route. Their plane is the Marszalek Pilsudski, named in honor of the Polish dictator. Kubala is in front and Idzikowski behind.

EQUALIZATION FEE MUST BE ENDORSED FARM BUREAU SAYS
Raskob's Excise Tax Substitute Has Been Rejected

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Neither Governor Alfred E. Smith nor Herbert Hoover will meet the present official view of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the largest farm organization, unless they flatly endorse the equalization fee plan of the McNary-Haugen bill or suggest a better method, it was declared here today.

This appeared to be the situation after Chester H. Gray, legislative representative of the Farm Bureau and chief spokesman before the congressional committee for the McNary-Haugen bill, outlined for international news service the bureau's position.

The excise tax scheme to re-equalize the fee—which was suggested as a possible method by Democratic national chairman John J. Raskob—has been considered and rejected, Gray said.

The Farm Bureau Federation, he explained, has always taken the position that it would alter its view when a more effective farm remedy than the equalization fee plan is submitted. Many counter-proposals have been rejected.

The excise tax and government loans to cooperative organizations in such manner that the individual farmer belonging to the cooperative would have an advantage over the non-member, have been rejected. They are more subject to the charge of unconstitutionality than the equalization fee, he said.

TWO YOUTHS HELD
KENTON, O., Aug. 4.—In default of $500 bail each, James Flanagan, 19, and Cletus Curran, 18, Pittsburgh, Pa., are in the county jail here today awaiting grand jury action on charges of burglary and grand larceny. The youths are said by police to have pleaded guilty to robbing the Michael Dowd and Zeolotes Cook homes here of money, guns, clothing and jewelry valued at more than $200.

MOORE'S ACTION IS PROTESTED BY TWO MORE DRY LEADERS

League Chief Asked For Explanation Of Leaving Out Begg

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 4.—Names of Lester D. Hill, Bowling Green, a Wood County dry leader, and of Attorney Matthew L. Bigger, Columbus, a candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, today were added to the list of prominent Ohio supporters of the dry cause who publicly voiced vigorous exception to the issuance this week by Dr. E. J. Moore, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, of a "sample" ballot endorsing certain candidates for state offices.

This "sample" ballot endorsed the gubernatorial candidacies of Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, Republican, and Martin L. Davey, Kent, and Earl Bloom, Bowling Green, Democrats, as well as various other candidates. Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky, a candidate for the U. S. P. gubernatorial nomination, and Bigger were among the candidates who failed to receive endorsement on this "sample" ballot.

Hill, who resides in Begg's home district, the superintendent Moore, requesting an explanation for the failure to endorse Begg on this ballot, it was stated.

Recalling that the league's advisory committee recently endorsed both Begg and Cooper, Hill was credited with stating that, if the league's officials did send out these ballots, "trustees of the Anti-Saloon League reversed the action of their advisory committee."

Asserting that he was "sincere" in his support of the dry cause, Bigger, in an open letter, accused Superintendent Moore of "insincerity and such gross neglect as inequity amounts to fraud, or the utterance of a deliberate and malicious falsehood."

Bigger asked Moore to resign from the superintendency while Hill, it was stated, declared that "it is time they (Moore and other officials at league headquarters here) understand that they are not bosses but servants of the people."

BRITISH PRAISING COURTNEY COURAGE IN LANDING PLANE

Say Flight Proved Value Of Metal Plane And Radio

LONDON, Aug. 4.—All England was today singing the praises of Capt. Frank T. Courtney for his coolness and daring in safely landing his blazing seaplane in mid-ocean and saving the lives of his three companions and himself.

Despite the fact that he failed in his flight, Courtney is being hailed as having advanced transatlantic flying another step by proving the worth of the all-metal seaplane and wireless under the most hazardous conditions.

It is pointed out that a land plane of ordinary construction would either have burned up in the air or dropped plummet-like to the bottom of the sea under conditions similar to those met by Courtney.

Wm. S. VARE
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 4.—The condition of Senator-Elect William S. VARE, stricken earlier in the week by a paralytic stroke, had suffered an alarming relapse late yesterday when he was unconscious.

OHIO'S POLITICAL ACTIVITIES REACH FEVER HEAT STAGE

Dry Endorsement Is Object Of Bitter Attacks

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 4.—With Ohio's statewide primary election only ten days away, activities among political candidates and their supporters were at the fever-heat stage today.

Charges and counter-charges, affecting the aspirations of various candidates for state and local offices, added materially in the warming up process.

Indications are that the closing of the polls on Tuesday evening, August 14, will mark the termination of one of the most fervid primary campaigns in the history of the Buckeye State.

Public disapproval of the action of Dr. E. J. Moore, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, in issuing a "sample" ballot endorsing the candidacy of Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, and the candidacies of other aspirants for state offices featured developments in Ohio political circles this week.

C. L. Dickey, Columbus, treasurer of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League; Lester Hill, Bowling Green, Wood County dry leader, and E. K. Root, Medina, and Norman C. Sherwood, Fremont, prominent members of the league, were publicly credited with being among the active supporters of Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky, also seeking the issuance of the so-called Anti-Saloon League "sample" ballot.

Friends of Begg declared that the League's policy committee, at a session here some days ago, accorded equal endorsement to Begg and Cooper, because of their satisfactory dry records. The claim was made that issuance of the "sample" ballot was in violation of the instruction of the policy committee.

Considerable dissatisfaction, also, was registered by a number of candidates who were not endorsed on the "white" list issued this week by officials of the Ohio W. C. T. U. of the gubernatorial candidates, this list gave its O. K. to Begg, Cooper and Shanley, Republicans, and to Davey and Bloom, Democrats.

OMAR HAGLER THROWN 35 FEET AS BRACE SLIPS

Sustains Serious Injuries While On Court House Job.

Omar A. Hagler, 49, 134 E. Third St., painter, sustained two fractures of the right leg and other serious injuries when he fell thirty-five feet from a scaffolding on which he was preparing to stand while painting window frames at the Court House at 10:15 a. m., Saturday.

The scaffold was suspended outside the windows of the office of Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy on the second floor north of the Detroit St. entrance.

The scaffold was slung between two window-jacks, one of which was insecurely fastened to the inside of the window sill by means of bolts. Hagler was preparing to climb a ladder, which he had placed on the scaffold in order to reach the upper part of the window frame, when a bolt holding one jack slipped on the smooth marble inside window sill, releasing the platform.

Hagler plunged from his high perch, crashing on his hip on an iron railing which surrounded an outside basement opening. Instead of falling into the cemented opening, he rolled off the railing onto the lawn, a fact which may have averted more serious injury.

The exact extent of his injuries is still undetermined. After a preliminary examination by Dr. W. A. Galloway, who was in the Court House, Hagler was removed to McAllellan Hospital in the J. H. Whitmer ambulance, where physicians made an examination Saturday noon and took X-ray pictures of the right leg, hip and back. He also complained of his left leg and may have internal injuries but did not lose consciousness.

Hagler was working with Roy Jones, who was just preparing to come out on the scaffold when the accident occurred.

MECHANIC DENIES MURDER OF WOMAN; ACCUSED OF CRIME

Girl's Nude Body Is Found In Ravine Near Hollywood.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 4.—Facing a charge of first degree murder, Russell S. Beitzel, former aviation mechanic, today continued to maintain his innocence of the slaying of Barbara Morrow, whose nude body was found in a North Hollywood ravine.

Authorities, investigating the mystery, were prepared to go into the city jail cell where Beitzel is being held and subject the prisoner to another severe examination.

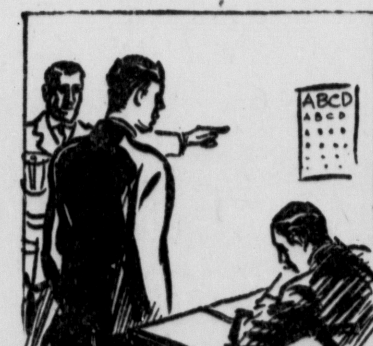

Beitzel's account, given to police during a prolonged questioning, was the basis upon which the murder complaint was formally lodged against him.

According to the former mechanic's story, he had met the girl in Philadelphia while she was a waitress and he an employee of a department store. They decided to journey to Los Angeles together, Beitzel said, and arriving here, lived as man and wife.

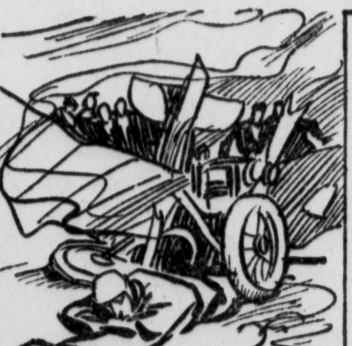

In leaving Philadelphia, Beitzel is said to have informed police, he abandoned a wife and two children, whose address was given by the prisoner as 1955 N. 19th St. in the Pennsylvania city.

The accused man, according to officials, admitted having gone to the vicinity where Miss Morrow's nude body was discovered. One day, he is said to have told questioners, he borrowed a revolver and drove to the scene, where he engaged in target practice.

Romance Isn't Dead—Quite

Maybe George D. Noebeling, Greenwich Village habitue and scion of wealthy Philadelphia family, is a throwback to the age of chivalry—or something. At any rate he fought a duel for his "ladye fair" and then tried to take his life because he couldn't get a job as an actor. The lady in question, Billy Netcong, is pictured consoling him in Knickerbocker Hospital, whither he was taken after leaping 75 feet to the hard pavement in Morningside Park. He's going to recover, marry Bill and live happily ever after.

DO YOU KNOW WHICH IS WHICH?

Just which one of these two gentlemen, talking so earnestly into the microphone, is the Democratic candidate for president, Governor Alfred E. Smith? Right you are—'tis the one at the right. But doesn't the one at the left look enough like Governor Smith to be his twin? His name also is Al Smith and he lives in Akron, O.

Captain Isaac Emerson, bromo seltzer magnate, who repudiated authorization of the purchase of $480,000 worth of jewels at a New York department store by his wife's housekeeper. The gems later found their way to a smart Fifth avenue shop for a mere fraction of their real value.

Two "Cut-Ups" at Coney Island

They're just two great big "cut-ups," are Jennie (left) and Myrtle, and you can't blame them for their ludicrous capers when the day's work is over at Luna Park and they're allowed to visit the beach. Jennie shows you how to "dive" in 6 inches of water.

ENSEMBLES-BEST EXPRESS MODE

Fashion experts have been practically unanimous in deciding that the ensemble best expresses the mid-summer, as it did the spring, mode. At the left is a three-piece dress ensemble employing silk faille in solid color and an imported coin dot print. The suit at the right combines a coat of transparent velvet with a dress of printed chiffon. The coat is bound with moire ribbon with a velvet bow partly attached to the left shoulder.

Simplicity Is Smart

Simplicity is the keynote of smart fashions for the fall ensemble. Mouse colored gray velvet in a straight wraparound is used for the coat of this fall ensemble, with dress in the same shade with a bit of embroidery at the waist and a girdle of self material. Gray satin shoes are worn with this suit.

WOMAN ARRESTED IN HUSBAND'S MURDER

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 4.—Mrs. Ethel Hogan, 23, was at liberty today under $4,000 bond on a charge of murdering her husband, Webb Hogan, 33, in the doorway of their home near Sandfortown, Ky., July 26.

Mrs. Hogan was arrested by Kenton County, Ky., authorities as she appeared at the Covington, Ky., city building to appear against three men who had been held in connection with the shooting. The warrant charged "wilful murder." At the time Hogan was shot, Mrs. Hogan related that they had been awakened early in the morning by a prowler, and that as Hogan opened the rear door he was shot down from ambush. County authorities declared themselves as never satisfied with her statement and when a firearms expert identified the bullet taken from the slain man's body as having been fired from his own gun, the warrant for Mrs. Hogan's arrest was issued.

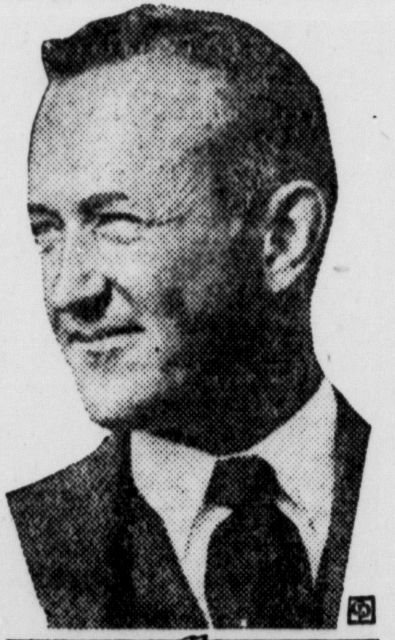

STONE'S CAREER ON STAGE IN JEOPARDY

NEW LONDON, Aug. 4.—Fred Stone's stage career hangs in the balance today. Whether he will ever be in physical condition to return to his profession is something surgeons cannot determine for weeks, according to pronouncement today.

Both legs were broken when his airplane crashed at Groton yesterday, and his left leg was broken in two places. To unite them successfully will take at least six months, surgeons believe, and there is a chance that even a longer time will be needed. "Condition favorable" was the laconic hospital report today.

FRIENDS SAVE RICH TABOR MINE AFTER LEGAL DISPUTES

DENVER, Aug. 4.—A story of romance, composed of an intermingling of luck, pride, grief, wealth and poverty, was retold here recently when Mrs. H. A. V. Tabor, widow of Senator Tabor, pioneer Colorado builder, miner and financier, made her last stand in her seventh apparently successful attempt to save the Matchless gold mine, located "on the hill" at Leadville, Colorado.

The Matchless Mine in the early days was one of the biggest producers of gold ore in Colorado. From its depths came the amassed fortune of H. A. V. Tabor, at one time a man of great wealth. At his death name reverses, the large estate dwindled, and now, Mrs. Tabor has been forced to appeal to the kindness of friends to save for her the Matchless Mine from the auction block.

Pay Off Mortgage
Mrs. J. B. Brown, whose husband also made a large fortune "on the hill" in Leadville, came proudly to the assistance of Mrs. Tabor. The two women met by chance in Leadville last winter and since then have cultivated a warm friendship. Mrs. Brown told Mrs. Tabor she would raise the $14,000 necessary to pay off a mortgage past due on the Matchless.

Since Mrs. Tabor's husband's death, she has lived in a one room hovel near her mine. She seemed to be happy in her sorrow, poverty and solitude. Six times before she has been forced to make desperate attempts to refinance the Matchless Mine in the hope that some day it would again become a producer of the yellow metal.

The six attempts have been successful, but never before has she been forced to seek the aid of friends. It was a severe blow to Tabor pride, but a gallant opportunity for Mrs. J. B. Brown to show her "miner hospitality" to a fellow in need.

Mrs. Brown, known widely in exclusive social circles in this country and European capitals as "The Unsinkable," is a survivor of the Titanic disaster off the Atlantic coast nearly a score of years ago. She is reputed to be wealthy, and spends much of her time in Newport, Palm Beach and New York City.

CIVIC LEAGUE NOTES

Most housekeepers, even with the daily use of vacuum cleaners, feel that certain periods in the year should be devoted to house cleaning. Such a period in Xenia city-keeping is near at hand. We want to look our best for our guests of Home-Coming Week, so, with a view to aid in this desirable enterprise, the Woman's Civic League was deputed by the Civic Clearing House to plan a city-wide clean-up.

With this end in view, a large committee with Mrs. James B. Watt as chairman, will suggest methods by which this work can be speedily and thoroughly done. The League asks that our citizens cheerfully co-operate with this committee, members of which will present their plans to you within a few days. It is desirable to have this clean-up completed before August 20, hence it will be a good idea to begin at once to cut weeds, trim trees, carry away piles of ashes and rubbish, edge up the flower beds cut off dried bloom stalks, in fact, get busy and beautify your own premises to such an extent that your neighbor may be incited to follow your example and thus make Xenia more beautiful.

DISMISS LIQUOR CASES AFTER W. C. T. U. NOTE WARNS JUDGE

LEBANON, O., Aug. 4.—Cases of seven alleged bootleggers have been dismissed by Judge Charles C. White, Batavia, sitting by appointment on the Warren County common pleas bench, at the request of the prosecutor because of a note received by the trial judge from W. C. T. U. informing him that "convictions are expected." It was revealed here today.

According to Prosecutor C. D. Dilatash, he requested the dismissal after he saw the note which Judge White had received. The note read: "we are here and convictions are expected." The note was signed by Mrs. Harshbarger, president of the W. C. T. U. Prosecutor Dilatash said, "and the note had been handed Judge White by a court bailiff, so under the circumstances I could do nothing other than the dismissal."

Judge White told him, "Prosecutor Dilatash said, 'never to all my years on the bench have I ever encountered anything similar.' Dilatash believes the only reason there were not contempt proceedings was because Judge White was a foreign magistrate and did not wish to create a scene."

ALLEGED INSANE MAN MAKES TWO ESCAPE EFFORTS; CAUGHT

In an attempt to prevent being committed to the Dayton State Hospital after being adjudged insane following a lunacy hearing before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Saturday morning, Leroy Curl, 39, colored, 931 E. Main St., porter, made two unsuccessful dashes for liberty from the court room.

When arrested on the complaint of relatives Saturday morning by Patrolman Fred Jones, Curl had a loaded .38 caliber revolver in his possession, police said.

Following the lunacy hearing in Probate Court, Curl was ordered confined in the Dayton hospital. Curl protested that he wanted to engage an attorney. While the necessary papers for his removal to the Dayton institution were being prepared, the court room was thrown into a commotion when O. A. Hagler, painter fell from a scaffolding to the ground just outside the Court House.

Sheriff Ohmer Tate and O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman, who with Deputy Sheriff George Sugden, had been standing guard over the prisoner, rushed outside the building to assist the injured man.

Curl also became agitated by the accident. Taking advantage of the fact the attention of court attaches was diverted Curl suddenly dashed out of the courtroom.

After visiting an attorney, he returned to the courtroom voluntarily but later made another break for liberty. He engaged in a scuffle with Deputy Sheriff Sugden and the pair was having a hand to hand struggle on the floor when officers summoned by court attaches, overpowered him. Sugden's shirt was torn up the back and he received a long scratch on the shoulder as a reminder of the struggle.

Officials handcuffed the colored man and made immediate preparations for his removal to Dayton.

EX-XENIAN FACES SERIOUS CHARGE
Frank Powers, 42, 1103 Woodley Road, Dayton, former Xenian, was held to the Montgomery County grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by Acting Judge Arthur K. Leen in Dayton Municipal Court Friday afternoon, in connection with the death of William W. Good.

Good received fatal injuries in Dayton two weeks ago when struck by an auto driven by Powers. Coroner J. F. Torrence, following an inquest into the death Thursday, returned a verdict in which he declared the accident was unavoidable.

Powers is one of the proprietors of the Powers Feed Co., and an independent oil dealer. Witnesses of the accident exonerated Powers but he was held on the manslaughter charge following an investigation conducted by police officials.

FRED FISHERING RECALLS MOLLIE JOHNSON AT MARKET STREET SCHOOL

Who remembers when Teacher Mollie Johnson taught the first grade at the old Market St. school? Fred E. Fisher, Bakersfield, Calif., former Xenian, remembers and speaks of those days in the letter he has written T. H. Zell, general chairman of the Greene County Home-Coming, in response to an invitation to the affair.

Maybe some of his contemporaries recall the poem from McGuffey's old fourth reader, of which he quotes a verse in the following letter:

My Dear Mr. Zell:
Your kind invitation to the Home-Coming in August came to my desk today. It has touched me keenly for when I look carefully, one by one, over these names on your executive committee list and then take myself back "thirty years ago" and see these men as boys, there can but be a feeling of sentiment that only a Greene County bred man can experience.

The roster contains the names of boyhood playmates—it harkens back to the days of the old Market St. school where Mollie Johnson started us off in the first year grade and gave us that precious thing which is a heritage—an education.

And here I pause, as the familiar poem in our old McGuffey's Fourth Reader comes into my mind:

"I've wandered to the village Tom, I've sat beneath the Tree, Upon the village playground Tom, That sheltered you and me. But few are left to greet us Tom, And few are left to know: Who played with us upon the green, Just forty years ago."

Nothing in the world would please me more than to have my business affairs in such a shape that I might come back to the old home town, bring my family and "their family" and join in the celebration—but us Californians are loath to leave our Yosemite which is only a short day's drive from Bakersfield with paved highway every inch of the way—to take so long a trip back to Xenia—not that I do not love our birthplace but time is an element which figures largely in such a trip.

My vacation period, already arranged for, is of two weeks' duration only, and my position as publicity manager precludes any possibility of extending my stay.

Reveries were returning home from a trip to Washington, C. H., and was driving south on Detroit St. when he fell asleep and the car dashed against the pole on the east side of the street.

BACK-BREAKING DRUDGERY

The farmer is just entering the most progressive era in modern agricultural history. The revolutionizing influence that will give him a practical way to increase his efficiency and prosperity is farm electrification.

This development is still in its infancy, but its success is indicated. Speaking of what it will mean to rural life Matthew S. Sloan, President, Brooklyn Edison company, said recently: "As electricity has taken the back-breaking drudgery out of factory work and greatly increased factory production, at lowered unit cost, so it is taking the toil, the muscle work, out of farming and reducing cost of crop production."

"That is one of the remaining frontiers which electricity is breaking down, and I do not think of any one piece of work ahead of the electric industry which is more important in its social and economic implications. My personal belief is that farm electrification will contribute as much to farm relief as collective marketing or any scheme of government aid which could possibly be adopted—perhaps a great deal more."

"It is a far cry from an old-fashioned farm with its endless drudgery to a modern farm with electric service—with an electric range, water pumped by electricity, home and barns and outbuildings electrically lighted, electric hay hoists, milking machines, electric refrigeration for general utility purposes. All that electricity has done for the city home and for the factory it is coming to do for the farm and the farm home."

General farm electrification means real farm advancement on a sound economic and progressive basis.

SHAW'S FINAL CONCLUSION

G. Bernard Shaw is probably the most intelligent and advanced Socialist in the world today and his newest book is a summary from his long career as a writer of the literary creme-de-la-Creme of Socialist philosophy.

The final conclusions of this great tome must be disheartening to followers of the cult, for he says in effect that "until the government has acquired all the powers of employment that private employers now possess, has become the national landlord, the national financier, and the national employer, it is no mortal use for anyone to practice Socialism in private life."

By Socialism or Communism—the terms he holds interchangeable—the author means one thing only, the equal distribution of material subsistence, i.e., income among all members of the community. This to be accomplished by legislation. All wealth and property must be redistributed in the direction of equality.

The men who do not push their business now because it is presidential year, probably will not push it next year, because the election did not come out just to suit them.

While the politicians are talking about the perils that menace the country, they should take up the questions of those soggy pie undercrusts.

You are not getting old until you hate to wear a new suit.

Among the things that run in all families are stockings.

WOULD YOU RIDE IN AN AIRSHIP?

How much risk do you think you would be taking in riding in an airship? Not an airship, but a cigar-shaped, rigid airship. Would you be afraid? Why?

P. W. Litchfield, general manager of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corp., noted that commercial airships have carried 40,000 passengers without accident.

LIGHTNING HIT BALLOON RACERS

Lightning cost the lives of some American balloon racers recently, but the bolts are not a problem to the rigid airship. Airships, filled either with hydrogen or the safer helium, have been hit by lightning many times without disaster.

The metal frame forms a "Faraday Cage," distributing the lightning so that it escapes through the engine exhaust.

WHAT ABOUT RAIN AND SNOW?

Rain and snow are inconveniences rather than hazards. Waterproofing protects the airship cover from rain. Snow blows off the airship in flight just as it falls from the top of a moving automobile. Nor is hail to be worried about. The airship cover, Mr. Litchfield pointed out, has the same strength as metal of the same thickness.

DO AIRSHIPS RUN FROM STORMS?

"The airship pilot figures shrewdly to take advantage of winds and hunts for storms rather than avoiding them." Doesn't seem possible, does it? The statement is Mr. Litchfield's and may be accepted as authoritative.

The commander aims to save fuel by getting ahead of the storm. Then the wind at his back will carry the big airship along. The small turbulent local storms, however, constitute a problem.

ADVANTAGE OVER AIRPLANES

In fog the landing of an airship has fewer dangers than of an airplane because the airship can descend vertically at slow speed.

Nor is the tornado an unsurmountable problem. The airship generally can travel out of the tornado's path, which is generally narrow.

NOW, HOW ABOUT A RIDE IN AN AIRSHIP?

Doesn't the airship seem safer after you have considered it in reference to weather phenomena? Five thousands hours in the air, 175,000 miles and 40,000 passengers without an accident are re-

The Diary of a New Yorker

NEW YORK—There is an apartment building at Fifth avenue and Fifty-eighth street where the annual rental of each apartment is $60,000. The house supplies 14 rooms, nine baths, elevator service and a doorman dressed up like an admiral, but the tenant has to do his own furnishing, hire his own servants, etc., so that the rent and upkeep there exceeds $250 a day.

The point to the story is that none of the apartments are occupied by their lessees more than half the time, as such people have country houses on Long Island or Florida or California, manses at in Connecticut, residences in Newport or Bar Harbor, and apartments in Paris or on the Riviera, or both.

When a beggar who has a more or less permanent station on a corner in Madison avenue goes into a restaurant for lunch, he leaves his organ, cup and pleading sign in charge of a boy, so that "business" goes on even in the absence of the proprietor. One side of the sign says: "I am blind and a father." The other, when displayed by the boy, reads "My father is blind, and there are four other children."

A few weeks ago I had a note here about the woman marriage broker who guarantees marriage to a man of means and social position or money refunded. I stated that she does not undertake to marry just anybody to millionaires. She requires that the prospective bride be pretty, accomplished, of good manners and of a reputable family.

Well, it appears difficult for women thus qualified to obtain a rich husband, for I have received numerous requests for the broker's address. (For obvious reasons, I must keep it confidential.)

The men who emerged from the recent high pressure periods in the stock market were the traders in odd lots of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange and the "Curb." The unit of trading, except for these odd lot dealers, is 100 shares, with most professional speculators buying and selling in lots running from 1,000 to 10,000; but in the recent bull market a tremendous amount of the activity was caused by clerks, salesmen and thousands of other laymen speculating on margin in small blocks of stock.

"I know a fellow who sells 'em wholesale, I'll get you a discount," is a popular promise in New York. Whether the article in question happens to be women's lingerie, baseball bats or cocktail shakers. Trading on the gullibility of folks who believe that wholesale houses sell their stuff to most anybody at a reduction on a word from Mr. Jones or Mr. Cohen or Mr. Hickum, there are stores in the wholesale district which sell shoddy stuff at what is actually more than the retail price for similar material in regular stores. They employ steers to send persons to them to buy wholesale at a discount.

Legitimate wholesale houses have a close agreement not to sell goods except to bona fide buyers for retail stores. The principal reason why they enforce the rule strictly is to protect themselves from style pirates.

Style stealing is a regular profession in New York. Men and women with ability as sketch artists who are familiar with design, materials, etc., are employed by smaller clothing manufacturers to visit stores, wholesale houses, fashion salons, even social affairs, to copy styles and ideas. This practice is cheaper than employing designers to create original models, and also prevents competitors from stealing a march on them.

Escalloped Spaghetti and Broccoli

Combination Salad

Berry Tarts

Coffee

We all use the ordinary garden variety cabbage. How often you know and use its cousin, the broccoli? Included in today's recipes is one that you may try out and I'm sure that hereafter you will be one of the broccoli advocates.

Today's Recipes.

Escalloped Spaghetti and Broccoli.—Break the spaghetti in small lengths and cover in boiling salted water for twelve minutes.

Separate broccoli into small flowerettes and cover with boiling salted water. Cook until tender.

Put broccoli and spaghetti in alternate layers in a baking dish, cover with a cream sauce.

Sprinkle the top with buttered bread crumbs and grated cheese and bake in the oven until the crumbs are browned.

Suggestions.

(New Way to Fry Potatoes.) Fry bacon or meat fryings of any kind, about three or four spoonfuls, in a heavy skillet.

Peel and slice potatoes about a sixteenth of an inch thick. Put these in the hot fat, season with salt and pepper and cover tightly.

Place over a medium fire and let cook slowly. When about half-cooked take a spatula and lift the browned potatoes of the bottom, letting the top ones slide onto the bottom, and again cover tight. When done they will be steamed, mealy potatoes with crisp, brown pieces intermixed. No water is needed, and just add fat enough to keep them from sticking to skillet.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Modern Ingredients of Beauty Aids

In the nineteenth century milk came into its own as a beautifying agent. But for many, many years it remained a most expensive ingredient, due to its quick souring and the effect this chemical change produced upon the sweetness and texture of the cream.

When Louis Pasteur offered his life work to the world in the process which bears his name, he accomplished some things he never even took into consideration. One of them was in teaching a health secret which quickly developed into a beauty secret. Pasteurized milk was subjected to countless laboratory tests, and after many years, it evolved as the base of a beauty cream which possesses all the value of the old milk creams, at one-twentieth of the cost. The milk bath, which originated before Rome had been built on its seven lofty hills, has now come to the twentieth century in its most satisfying, sensible form—a soft and fragrant cream—or should you prefer it, as a lotion. White as its principle ingredient, and just as kind to lovely skins.

Perhaps you thought that milk baths were unknown until the enterprising reporters of a few decades ago raved at great length about Anna Held's beauty baths. Far from it! Poppaea, the beautiful and notorious mistress of Nero, would never take a step from the royal palace without taking with her the cavalcade of asses that were to furnish her the milk for her daily baths.

In the eighteenth century, buttermilk came into feminine vogue, and was so sound and successful as a beautifying agent that today, hundreds of years later, it forms the base of some of our highly successful creams. Buttermilk washes are famous for their bleaching qualities and as softeners and whiteners of the skin. Next in importance to milk and its variations, we have the products of orchard, garden and vineyard, gathered from every country of the world—for your beauty's sake.

Diet and Health

AN EFFICIENT STOMACH

One of our readers thinks that I am very cruel to advise a mother to put adhesive straps on the baby's mouth, if necessary, to prevent its chewing the piano legs. You remember the case I wrote about: the mother said the baby passed huge splinters.

Children do swallow splinters and other pointed objects which frequently will safely pass through the intestinal tract without any apparent injury, but there is always the possibility of injury and that is what we have to think of. So if we are cruel, it is but another case of being cruel to be kind.

A record-breaking case of foreign objects in the stomach was written up in one of the recent medical journals. It was that of a demented person who has accustomed to swallowing all sorts of pointed and angular metal objects, nails, tacks, etc. Finally his stomach had to be opened, when more than 25,000 separate objects were removed, the total number weighing almost a pound. The stomach walls were thickened, but otherwise uninjured, and the patient made an uneventful recovery.

will be steamed, mealy potatoes with crisp, brown pieces intermixed. No water is needed, and just add fat enough to keep them from sticking to skillet.

Orange Punch

Mix one quart of cold tea, the juice of two lemons, three oranges and sugar syrup to taste. Add one pint of ginger ale and serve with ice.

Unfermented Grape Juice

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

Put into the punchbowl with a piece of ice, the juice of one-half dozen lemons, one can pineapple, one quart Apollinaris or carbonated water, one-third dozen oranges cut in slices, three quarts unfermented grape juice. Stir the above ingredients thoroughly, sweeten to taste and serve with fruit. One gallon mixture.

However, a stomach so efficient as this is a rare bird, so you mustn't jump to the conclusion that swallowing foreign bodies is altogether harmless.

While we are on the subject, I must tell you that if your child does swallow some object not allowable in a child's diet, don't give him a physic. Feed him cereals and put some granulated agar in it which will not be absorbed, so as to form a coating around the object. X-ray pictures can be taken to watch its progress if your physician thinks it is necessary.

Itchy Spots.

Mrs. E. has an intense itchy spot which nearly drives her wild. She has always believed that cleanliness is next to Godliness; so there is no failure in that line. She has no discharge, and there is no eruption. Her modesty forbids her going to her own physician.

Before I give you any suggestions, Mrs. E., I'm going to shock you a little bit, you and others who call themselves modest because you won't go to a physician if you need a complete examination. This is not modesty at all. Don't you know that a physician a man or woman is a patient, neuter gender, if you will?

However, if you do not want to go to a man physician, most every place of any size has its quota of good women physicians. There is no doubt that it is better for young girls to go to women physicians when they can; but when they can't they should go to their own family physician, even though he is a man.

Now about that itchy spot: Itchy spots may be caused by uncleanliness, as you have implied; by irritating discharges, or by an irritating urine. A urine may be irritating if it is too concentrated from a lack of drinking water, and it may also be irritating if it is too acid from a preponderance of acid-forming foods, or when it has sugar in it, as in diabetes; and in other conditions. If none of these

Kellygrams

In buying material recently for a little house I was remodeling, I discovered to my disgust that not a single dealer in my neighborhood could be relied upon to keep his promises about date of delivery. Everyone excused himself when delays came by saying that unexpected difficulties had arisen. All of which leads me to the conclusion that most businessmen could profit greatly by studying methods of circuses, which rarely stop for unexpected troubles. A circus man arranges in February to give a show in a town thousands of miles away on a certain day in September, and, regardless of storm or disaster, the show somehow gets there. The street parade, if any, starts promptly at 10 o'clock. Circus men have come to feel that nothing, no matter how terrible, is sufficient excuse to deviate from their schedule. Newspapers have the same spirit. The entire plant may burn to the ground, but the paper comes out on time, the same as usual. Few of us have this circus spirit. As a rule we are like the farmer who constantly uses the weather as an excuse for his own daily-dalling and shortcomings. Personally, I always welcome any happening which delays my buckling down to toil.

"MAGIC CARPET" FOR PLANTS

After three years of experimenting a "magic carpet" that has increased gardeners' crops more than 500 per cent, has been perfected in Europe. The carpet is of heavy waterproof paper and covers all the ground except that occupied by the stems themselves. It is said to increase the temperature of the soil, prevent loss of moisture, smother weeds, and distribute water among the plants. The increase in the yield of spinach is 516 per cent, of lettuce 100 per cent, green corn 300 per cent, and potatoes nearly 400 per cent.

causes are operating in your case, it may be that the nerve endings in that particular itchy spot are disordered from some cause. At any rate, you should see your physician about it. He may use the X-ray; it has proved beneficial in many such cases.

Meanwhile, keep the spot covered with gauze fastened on with adhesive, first applying some mild antiseptic ointment, such as unguentine or vaseline, or benzoid ointment.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, who is to break the news to Alfred E. Smith that the latter is a presidential candidate, will be well advised to take an intensive course in broadcasting first—over the mike.

The senator never will get any more news, on account of his radio personality, until he does better than he did at the Houston convention.

His stunt there was to read the platform. At the start he was too slow. The job threatened to take him all night. After about an hour Chairman Joe Robinson punched him up. Then he went too fast. It was impossible to understand a word he said.

Finally, kindly but firmly, Senator Robinson yanked his manuscript out of his hands and gave it to the convention secretary, who finished it for him.

The Nevada solon can make a good speech in the senate, remote from the mike, but he has not caught the trick of the wireless yet.

When a competent business executive happens to be put in charge of a political party's campaign headquarters, his staff's all-round inefficiency must drive him just about wild.

He is used to a well-trained, disciplined organization, of course. That is exactly what a campaign outfit distinctly is not.

It is a hastily-thrown-together jumble, mostly of unpaid volunteers, who cannot be bawled out like an ordinary office force. Nobody's responsible to anybody else. Nobody knows who is who or what. Orders may be obeyed or they may be forgotten completely.

It is not an enterprise that deals in any tangible commodity. There is nothing definite to report. Everything is a matter of guesswork.

System?—no national committee ever heard of such a thing.

The Republican committee in Washington occupies four floors in a big office building, with a personnel of about 1,000.

If you have business to transact there you are quite likely to have to make practically the entire rounds, looking for the right functionary to transact it with. You may not find him then. He may be out to lunch—or out of town—or maybe there is no such functionary.

The local Democratic offices are not so bad—but they are only a branch, here in the capital.

The main Jeffersonian headquarters in New York probably is the same kind of a lunatic asylum as the Republican madhouse in Washington—worse, for all I know.

There is nothing unusual about it. It is always the same way, on both sides.

But how real executives like Dr. Hubert Work and John J. Raskob—accustomed to well-oiled machinery—how they stand without having apoplexy, is a mystery to me.

Living and Loving

That Lonely Widow

What is the solution to the problem of the woman whose husband has died and her children grown and married? Most women want to marry again. They think that is the only way to fill their lonely lives. That is, judging from the letters I get. But it is not always possible or expedient to marry. Men of suitable age and station are not always available. What, then, shall a woman do to keep from being lonely and unhappy—a burden to herself and her married children?

"Dear Mrs. Virginia Lee: Will you please answer my problem? I am a widow and all my children are married but one, and he will be soon. Do you think I can get a man my age I should care when they are married. Do you think I would do the right thing or not? It is very lonely some at night. I have my own home. LONELY WIDOW."

It would be perfectly all right if you could find a good man of suitable age, and would probably be the happiest solution. If you do not, however, how about taking a young person or two to board, to make a home for? There are many lonely young people who would appreciate any motherly interest you might take in them and in making life pleasant for them, you would find happiness for yourself. Or, if that would not work, isn't there some other lonely widow who could share your home? Two women who were congenial could have a royal good time living together.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am 16 and have fallen in love with a boy two years my senior. We went together awhile and broke up.

then we made up and have gone steady for over six months. About a week ago my folks 'blew up' and, although he says he still loves me, he gave me back my pin and says that I can forget him. Why did he do this? I know I will never love anyone else. Please advise me what to do. "BROKEN-HEARTED."

What a number of broken-hearted little damsels there are in the world. I suppose your friend decided that your people didn't approve of him, so what was the use of going together. Try not to fret about it, and maybe things will straighten out of themselves. If not, I'm sure, in spite of what you say, that you will meet another boy whom you will like as well as your present friend.

The woman who signed her again "Desperate" is answered in a letter, the writer of which takes the opposite attitude to that of the last. "Desperate," you remember, felt she no longer loved her husband, although she admitted that he was good and clever. This correspondent says:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: In answer to 'Desperate,' I went through the same feeling as she two years ago. My dear, you are sick and do not know it. You are absorbing poison somewhere. See a doctor. If you could go away for a change and have quiet, I will be glad to write you and tell you how I got cured, and now everybody is happy. "SYMPATHY."

I have the address of this lady in case "Desperate" wants to write to her. Send up a stamped addressed envelope. Desperate and I will send you her letter.

Turning Stones for a Living "Bobolinks are curious!" chirped Mrs. Bobolink.

"That they are!" chuckled Mr. Bobolink, "and once again curiosity made us forget our homesickness."

"But when we came to where that bird was, he refused to pay any attention to us—that is at first. He seemed to be too busy. Head close to the ground, he appeared to be searching for something. With his bill and claws he kept tossing pebbles from side to side. At last one of them struck me."

"Hey, stop that," shrilled I. "Can't you see you hurt me?"

"Keep out of my way and you won't get hurt," shrilled the fellow, rudely. "I didn't invite you over here, did I? I am minding my own business and I can't help it if you interfere with it, or try to! I am looking for sand hoppers and baby king-crabs that hide under these stones. I haven't had my supper yet. Neither have wife nor the babies. Mrs. Turnstone will be angry if I don't come home with the food before dark. Hurrah! What luck! Here's a fine mess of crab eggs. Wife will like these. Really, little strangers, if you had any sense you'd turn over a few stones yourself instead of just watching me do it. There's a tasty tidbit under every pebble."

"That will be lots of fun," cried wife, "Come on, Bob, let's try it."

"So we did but it was not as simple a thing to do as we had imagined. Mr. Turnstone didn't seem to have a bit of trouble. He'd scratch for a second among the sand, scatter the smallest pebbles out of his way, and roll over a stone as easily as if it had been a seedpod and pick up the unlucky little crab that had hidden beneath it before it could scramble out of his reach. "But Mrs. Bobolink and I had no luck at all. The pebbles tickled us and made us cough, and after a little we gave it up in disgust, although we did find some spawns that tasted good. Turnstone laughed at us."

"Keep on trying," said I. "That is the only way to a thing right, you know. Why I have been at this all my life. Turning stones is the way to make my living—in fact it is the only art that any of my family have ever learned, so it is no wonder that I do it well. Next—"Gull Geta What He Deserves."

Toledo Driver Enjoys Field Day At Friday Races

PLAXICO WINS TWICE AND TAKES SECOND MONEY ONCE IN EVENTS

Royal Guy Shows Heels In 2:18 Trot For $1,000 Stake And Wagner Cup; Sabina Horse Wins Pacing Event

R. B. Plaxico, Toledo, O., grand circuit driver, had a banner afternoon on the closing program of the Southwestern Ohio Shortship Circuit meet at the Greene County Fair Friday, accounting for two winners and one second money in the three events.

Somewhat the best of a field of seven starters, Royal Guy, a bay gelding owned by Roy E. Davis, Toledo, and driven by Plaxico, won the 2:18 trotting stake race for a $1,000 purse, feature event on the card, and the owner was also awarded a loving cup by the L. A. Wagner Jewelry Store.

The Toledo trotter, an overwhelming favorite, took the first heat impressively in 2:11 flat, but broke badly at the last turn in the second heat and finished sixth. This heat was won by Major Merrill, of the H. M. Marshall stables at Urbana. In the third and deciding heat, Plaxico permitted Major Merrill to set the pace until the stretch and then Royal Guy won out in a stirring finish, traversing the mile route in 2:10 1/4.

The silks of J. F. Cartnall, Newark, O., flashed triumphantly to victory twice in the Free-for-all pace for a $400 purse, which was captured by True Grattan, a black mare, in straight heats from a field of five horses. Plaxico also drove this winner. Jackie O'Connor, also of the Cartnall stables and driven by Cartnall, came in second each heat. In each heat True Grattan let one or more of the other pacers show the way until the stretch.

True Grattan made the best time of the afternoon, running the heats in 2:08 3/4, 2:08 1/4 and 2:08 1/2. Another heavy favorite came through in the remaining event of the card when Peter Patch, a bay gelding owned by H. G. Chaney, Sabina, and driven by Craig, defeated five other starters to win the 2:18 pace and $300 purse in straight heats.

Peter Patch won each heat by a hurricane finish. During the running of the heats the favorite's backers had quite a few attacks of the heebie jeebies for Peter Patch time and again laid behind the leaders and did not seem able to overhaul the pace-setters until the last 100 yards. Then would come the glittering climax. Like a thunderbolt the pacer would shoot along the outside of the field and dash on to victory.

Second place in each heat went to Barney Burke, owned by O. W. Crane, agent, Marion, O., and driven by Plaxico. Summaries:

NOTES OF THE RACES

The Southwestern Ohio Shortship Circuit three-day meeting at the Greene County Fair came to a close Friday with the crowd again of large proportions and the weather of the ideal summery variety.

The fact that not a single horse entered in any of the three events on the Friday program was a scratched is worthy of comment. The fields were comparatively small but competition was nevertheless keen. A. E. Staup, Tippicanoe City, who is a barber in private life, handled the flag for the second straight year and his work drew favorable mention.

Favorites came through true to form in each race and two events were marked by straight heat victories. The stake event would probably also have been a straight heat victory for that sterling trotter, Royal Guy, had not the Toledo-owned horse broke badly on the last turn in the second heat while leading the field.

It was "Plaxico Afternoon" Friday. R. B. Plaxico, Toledo, O., grand circuit driver, drove two horses for a finish in first place and one for second money, giving him a field day. Plaxico drove Royal Guy to victory in the stake feature and won with True Grattan in straight heats in the free-for-all pace. He finished second with Barney Burke in each heat of the 2:18 pace.

Dr. H. H. Smith, Oxford, O., whose trotter, Tamerlane, finished for third money in the stake race, told the fair officials he had been racing for the last fifty years, but, although Oxford is only sixty-five miles away, had never before raced on the Xenia half-mile oval.

Between heats fair patrons were entertained with music furnished by the New Burlington Community Band. The band lived up to the reputation for high class music established during the preceding two years.

No accidents of even a minor nature marred the three days of racing. Small fields for the most part reduced the possibility of mishaps to the minimum.

Chief interest at the fair races this year centered upon the revival of stake racing, which brought about faster time and the entry of a better grade of pacers and trotters, many of which are familiar to patrons of grand circuit tracks. The outstanding feature of the meeting was the lowering of Xenia track record on the opening day, the new mark being 2:06 1/4. This eclipsed the old record by three-fourths of a second.

GIANTS APPEARING AS STRONGEST FOE OF LEADING CARDS

Defeat Cincinnati Late In Contest On Friday

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—If the St. Louis Cardinals can subdue New York in their crucial series starting here tomorrow, many experts will be ready to concede the pennant to the Red Birds, for the Giants have demonstrated quite clearly in the past two weeks that they are the best of the other contenders.

While the Cardinals were bowling over the Phillies and Braves and getting an even break in Brooklyn, they fattened their batting average to .302, only three points below Pittsburgh. The Giants meanwhile took three out of four from Chicago and two straight from Cincinnati. They clinched second place and stayed within 6 1/2 games of St. Louis by nosing out the Reds yesterday, 7 to 5, while small William Sherdel hurled the Cards to a 5 to 1 win over Boston.

Extra base hits by Lindstrom and Hozan have been featuring New York's late rallies. Each hit a homer yesterday as the McGrawmen scored six runs in the last two innings.

The Cubs advanced to third place by outslugging Brooklyn, 8 to 5. They kayaked Jumbo Elliott in the third inning and scored seven runs.

In the American League Philadelphia's ten-game winning streak was snapped by Cleveland's six-run winning spurt. The Mackmen lost a chance to gain on the Yankees, who were whitewashed 8 to 0 by Sam Gray of the St. Louis Browns. Murderers' row hasn't dented the platter in 21 innings and the team's batting average has shrunk to .303. Waite Hoyt, the league's leading pitcher, was Gray's victim.

It was the first time since 1925 that the Browns had won a series from the Yanks.

Connie Mack hurled eighteen players into the breach in a desperate effort to beat Cleveland, but five pinch hitters, including Grandpa Ty Cobb, Daddy Tris Speaker and Uncle Eddie Collins, were set down by Hudlin and Shaute.

Big Ed Morris hurled the Red Sox to a 3 to 1 triumph over Chicago. Sam Jones of Washington held Detroit to five hits while the Nats pounded out a 9 to 3 win.

The paralyzed Phils were revived and sent on the field to be slaughtered by the Pirates, again, 14 to 6. Pie Traynor got five of Pittsburgh's nineteen hits.

A month ago they were so far ahead and out of sight that the second-place Athletics thought they were on top.

And then something happened. Now they've dropped enough hits to make the American an eight-club league again.

HARNESS CIGARS BEAT CENTRAL HIGH IN NATIONAL LOOP GAME

Running true to scheduled form, the Harness Cigars for the third time this season defeated Central High School by a one-run margin, nosing out a 13 to 12 victory by springing a three-run rally in the ninth inning in a National League softball game Friday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

Time and again Central High had the game literally in the bag, only to have the league-leaders crawl back on even terms. The victory practically clinched the National League championship for Harness as the leaders could lose one of their remaining three games and still win the title.

Home runs, many of them, by both teams, accounted for a majority of the runs. Neither Boxwell, Harness hurler, nor Doak, Central pitcher, were effective.

Central held a 7 to 2 lead at the end of the third inning but Harness put over five runs to tie the count in the fourth. Central went out in front again by tallying five times in the sixth. The leaders gradually cut down the advantage, scoring once in each of the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds and then winning out by a three-run rally in the ninth.

Central lineup: Higgin, 2b; Bell, 1b; Smittle, 3b; Gibney, ss; Doak, p; Buell, lf; Tull, cf; Monroe, rf; Michael, cf; Rice, rf; Hurley, cf.

Score by innings: 232 005 000—12 Central; 110 501 113—13 Harness.

Everett Burnett, Jamestown, charged with the theft of an auto belonging to his brother, Carmen, escaped prosecution before R. O. Copey, justice of the peace, Saturday morning when the brother withdrew the charge upon the agreement of Burnett to pay the costs of the case.

The auto, which had not been damaged, was recovered for the owner. Burnett was arrested at Xenia, where he pleaded not guilty to the auto theft charge before Magistrate Copey. His hearing was held Saturday morning.

Pipgras bats and throws with his right hand, is six feet one and one-half inches tall and weighs 187 pounds.

George Pipgras, young pitching sensation of the New York Yankees, was born in Denison, Ia., in 1899.

Though in baseball but eight years, Pipgras has played with seven clubs in five leagues in that time.

He was the first time since 1925 that the Browns had won a series from the Yanks.

Connie Mack hurled eighteen players into the breach in a desperate effort to beat Cleveland, but five pinch hitters, including Grandpa Ty Cobb, Daddy Tris Speaker and Uncle Eddie Collins, were set down by Hudlin and Shaute.

Big Ed Morris hurled the Red Sox to a 3 to 1 triumph over Chicago. Sam Jones of Washington held Detroit to five hits while the Nats pounded out a 9 to 3 win.

The paralyzed Phils were revived and sent on the field to be slaughtered by the Pirates, again, 14 to 6. Pie Traynor got five of Pittsburgh's nineteen hits.

LEADERS CONTINUE WELL INTRENCHED IN SOFTBALL LOOPS

Contending teams in the National and American Softball Leagues had a new deal this week, but the games served only to strengthen the positions of the leaders of both leagues.

In the National League, the Harness Cigars, Downtown Country Club and Firemen, the three leaders, each recorded victories, leaving the situation unchanged. Harness, with a two and one-half game lead and only three more games to play, is almost a mathematical certainty for the championship of the senior loop.

In the American League, the Carroll-Binder Co. has a one-game advantage over Hudson-Essex. Each team has lost two games but the latter time has several postponed games to be played off.

Schedule next week follows: Monday—Kiwanis vs. Carroll-Binder Co.; Tuesday—Rotary vs. Hudson-Essex; Wednesday—Firemen vs. St. Brigid High School; Thursday—The D. T. C. Club vs. Harness Cigars; Friday—Central High vs. the Phi Deltas.

D. T. C. Club 8 3 .727
Firemen 7 4 .636

GEORGE PIPGRAS

George Pipgras, young pitching sensation of the New York Yankees, was born in Denison, Ia., in 1899.

Though in baseball but eight years, Pipgras has played with seven clubs in five leagues in that time.

He was the first time since 1925 that the Browns had won a series from the Yanks.

The paralyzed Phils were revived and sent on the field to be slaughtered by the Pirates, again, 14 to 6. Pie Traynor got five of Pittsburgh's nineteen hits.

A month ago they were so far ahead and out of sight that the second-place Athletics thought they were on top.

And then something happened. Now they've dropped enough hits to make the American an eight-club league again.

The one-time Big Berthas of Broadway have simmered down to just so many cap pistols out of order.

The fall of the Roman empire was a classy tumble, but compared to the Yanks' toe-stubbing act it was just a mild stagger.

The New Yorkers do everything big. They even know how to lose magnificently.

If the Yankees are really kidding they shouldn't forget one thing. It's the kind of joke that won't last until October.

GIRL TURNS DOWN $2,000,000 DOWRY FOR JOB AS ACTRESS

By CLARK KINNAIRD
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Pity the poor movie press agent! He's so addicted to invention and so full of publicity tricks that when he tells the truth no one believes him.

There was the instance of the death-defying rescue of Fay Wray by Gary Cooper while they were on location in the wilds of Maryland. Fay fell in and became entangled in some fishing nets. Gary jumped in with all his clothes on and barely managed to save her. When the company press agent learned about it some hours later and offered the story by long distance telephone to nearby newspapers, editors laughed at him and said, "Heh, heh! That's an old one. Why don't you trot out press agent plot No. 679, the jewel robbery story, too?"

And there is the romantic incident, of recent occurrence, in the life of Raquel Torres, beautiful young Mexican actress, who makes her debut in the forthcoming picture of Frederick O'Brien's famous book, "White Shadows in the South Seas."

The cinerama was made on the island of Tahiti, with natives enacting all of the roles except the leads, which were played by Monte Blue and Miss Torres. In order to obtain the services of the natives the producers had to make arrangements with Chief Mehevi, most powerful of the native rulers. Many of his people earn their livelihood as pearl divers and they pay tribute to the chief in pearls, so that he has one of the finest collections of gems in the world. It is estimated to be worth $2,000,000.

Chief Gets "Crush"

Well, Chief Mehevi came to know the white visitors and he was especially well disposed toward Raquel Torres. In typical South Sea fashion, without so much as asking the lady's consent, he approached the picture producers, whom he understood to be Raquel's guardians, and formally requested her hand in marriage.

He would, he declared, make her his queen and bestow upon her his collection of pearls. The pearls, he added, were pretty baubles, but he didn't particularly care for them, and possibly the lady would like them.

Two millions in pearls! Raquel Torres almost fainted when she heard of the offer.

Very gracefully, so as not to offend the chief's feelings and possibly alienate his interest in the picture with the resultant withdrawal of the natives from participation in its making, Raquel and her guardians declined the chief's offer.

When the company got back to the United States and the story was told, there were smiles all around. "Another press agent story," it was said. And Raquel, remembering the $2,000,000 in pearls, which she saw with her own eyes, was very angry.

Raquel Torres, movie beauty, above, and Chief Mehevi, of Tahiti, who is willing to give $2,000,000 in pearls for her hand in marriage.

But she can't help wondering what it'd be like to be queen in the South Sea isles, garbed in $2,000,000 worth of pearls.

DR. GALLOWAY WILL SPEAK AT VILLAGE

When West Woodville, Clermont County village, celebrates its centennial Sunday, Dr. W. A. Galloway, Xenia historian, will be among the speakers.

An all day program has been arranged for the celebration with the afternoon program, being historical in nature. Dr. Galloway will give a historical address in the afternoon. The program will be held out of doors. The village is located south of Blanchester.

Cowboy Politician

This New Mexico official knows his ropes. He is Robert C. Dow, attorney general of the state, and, at present, gubernatorial candidate on the Democratic ticket. This photo was taken when he accompanied 22 New Mexico cowboys to Chicago, where they were entered in rodeo contests.

Janet. Many James, eighteen, sweet and clever and good, has an ambition to go on the stage because her mother, who died the night she was born, had been a famous opera star. In New York Janet meets Dr. Ballard Riley, who is known as a woman hater. Ballard dates her up, and Janet gets a lot of fun out of having a date with him. Janet meets Flavia Marlowe, Sir Henry Martindale and "Putty" Bigelow. Flavia, about fifty years old, is beginning to wrinkle and trying to hide it. She is wealthy, and has a studio in the Village. Flavia persuades Janet to lease a studio. It is Janet's first evening in her new home, and she is entertaining Flavia and her friends. Later there is a knock at the door, and Ballard Riley steps in.

In Flavia's words, Ballard threw a wet blanket on the party the minute he came in. After the guests depart, Ballard lectures Janet for taking up with the Villagers. "Putty" Bigelow, boy friend of Flavia, makes an unexpected call on Janet. He grabs Janet around the waist and lifts her up, attempting to kiss her.

Flavia follows "Putty" in, and there is a scene when she accuses Janet of trying to vamp her boy friend. Janet is astonished, because she has been trying to persuade "Putty," whom she dislikes, to leave the studio. Flavia bursts into tears and stamps out of the room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVI.

Ballard was decidedly proud of his bachelorhood, and intended that nothing should interfere with his freedom. As long as Janet kept her head he'd pal around with her. But the minute she showed any sentiment, he was out of the picture.

Both were busy with their thoughts as they drove up town. Janet watched him from the corner of her eye, and thought how handsome and strong he looked. She thought how strange were the ways of love, and marveled at the emotion that filled her heart, sitting there so close to the man she loved. She wondered if he read her thoughts—and would have given a year of her life to know what he was thinking about.

Suddenly her heart turned cold. Suppose he would never love her. Suppose she were just a little nobody to him. Could it be possible that she could love him so and he not care for her? She moved her hand so that it touched his sleeve. A warm wave of emotion surged through her body and surprised her so that she sat bolt upright.

He turned and smiled. "What is the matter? Did you think I was going to hit that cab?"

"Oh, I—I just thought of something. I—I don't believe I locked the door."

He laughed and called her little fuss-button, and promised to look behind all the furniture when they go back.

They ate almost in silence. Once he asked her why she was so pensive, and she told him he wasn't exactly a gay dinner partner. He smiled. She accounted for her quiet as being a let-down from the night before, and he told her of a very sick patient who had kept him beside his bed all night.

When they reached the studio Ballard racked his brain for a good excuse to go back to the hospital. She was too appealing. He cursed himself for a fool to let himself in for an evening alone with such a kid. Janet was thrilled with the prospect of her first evening with him alone in her own home.

She flung the door open and threw her hat on the table.

"I can't make you a high ball—hardly. What do you drink, milk?" He grinned.

"No stimulant is necessary in the presence of so charming a lady."

Ballard sat down on the divan, and Janet, with her feet curled up under her like an Indian, sat at the other end.

"You say the cutest things! It's a shame you have had so much experience. It must take the edge off your dates."

"What a funny thing to say." He wrinkled his brow thoughtfully. "Just what do you mean by that?"

"Oh, I mean you know all about what a girl is thinking—and possibly just what she is going to say next. I should think it wouldn't be half as much fun as being dumb like I am."

Ballard threw back his head and laughed.

"Heaven forbid that you are not dumb as a fox in the first place—and in the second place—how can a man know what a woman is going to do or say next when she doesn't even know herself until it's too late!"

"Oh you are another man who

"You say the cutest things," said Janet.

believes women are mad creatures, of wild impulse!"

He shook his head gravely. "You are mad as March hares, every one of you."

Janet laughed. "That's funny! We christened my studio 'The March Hare' last night. I had just broken a bottle of ginger ale over the fireplace when you came. Flavia calls her place 'The White Pup,' after her dog."

Ballard raised his hands. "I give up, You Villagers are plain nuts!"

"Oh, thanks for the compliment. So I am a real Villager, now, and have the ear marks. I'm sure glad to hear it."

"What is there about this dirty, God-forsaken place down here that appeals to so many people. I wonder? For instance to a well-bred, brainy girl like you. I'd like to know the secret."

Janet looked as serious as a little old lady.

"Oh, people really live down here. They are so frank and—well, they aren't ashamed of life. That is the way I want to be."

He wanted to laugh. But kept his face straight.

"That's it, is it? Well, Janet, let me tell you that this room is more life than a painting is the real thing. Seventy-five per cent of these people down here are using their so-called art to cover their indiscretions. Art, what crimes are committed in thy name."

Before she had time to protest, he asked:

"But who is this Flavia you speak of? The woman with the young eyes?"

Janet's eyes widened. "How did you know they were friends?"

"I assumed, when you told me over the phone that you had been accused of robbing the old lady's cradle, they were the parties."

Janet's face dropped.

"Yes, I felt terrible about it. He came in this afternoon—just called. Goodness knows, I can't stand him, and I didn't know he was going to drop in. She came in and threw a purple fit. Called me a little nobody, and said you couldn't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear—and all kinds of awful things."

He pointed a finger at Janet.

"There, now! That ought to show this crowd up. She's old enough to be his mother. What would a woman of that age see to admire about a kid like that? And if she had any breeding, she wouldn't throw jealous fits when he wants to call on someone nearer his age."

Janet had a desire to protect Flavia. She spoke up quickly.

"Oh, now doctor, that isn't fair. Put yourself in her place. Wouldn't you get all out of life you could if you were a woman in your last years of life and romance? Believe me, I think if she can get away with it she is to be admired."

Ballard reached over and patted her hand. She let it rest in his for a moment and he said seriously:

"You are a very nice and a very loyal little girl. But don't sympathize with her too much. And don't give her another chance to humiliate you. I know her kind."

Janet's next question was like a bolt from the blue.

The Theater

By FLEET SMITH

NEW YORK, August 4.—Every now and then something happens to upset ideas and bring the show business back into line. One of the fundamentals is that if you show a better picture, or build a better mousetrap, the world will beat a path to your door. But this can be forgotten very easily when the mercury spurts up across the 90 mark and the ticket seller begins to wait about the summer slump.

This bluff about a summer slump has engaged a staff of musicians and composers and has set them to work on accompaniments for pictures about to be released. These musicians include some of the best known in the United States.

The extent to which the film industry has turned toward sound is indicated interestingly in the records of the patent office in Washington. Inventors see the future in sound pictures, and they have jumped to it even faster than the producers. There are sixty-one different devices for sound reproduction of moving picture talk and effects on film in the patent office. But that was reported several days ago, and the number may have gone to a hundred by now.

But gross receipts for the picture opening weekend were the greatest in the history of the house. Total receipts for Saturday and Sunday were nearly $1000 greater than any previous weekend since the opening. Winter of summer. That might be called beating a path with a vengeance.

There was the added attraction of sound, of course. It was a novelty. No other picture with sound accompaniment ever had been shown in the theater. And also it was a good picture. The New York Yankee baseball team attended the showing and were as enthusiastic over the picture as a crowd of sandlot kids. It had to be good to draw on a week like that with the title, "Warming Up."

Used as a theme-song in "Warming Up" is one of the most popular of current ballads, "Out of the Dawn," by Walter Donaldson. It has been heard on the radio almost nightly and has been whistled across the continent. The song is an indication of how things will go after sound pictures get firmly established. The big producing companies announce that special scores will be composed originally for all feature pictures, so making the opening of a picture as important from the musical as from the film standpoint. WHITEHALL FARM TAKES FIRST PRIZE FOR BEEF CATTLE AT FAIR

First prizes in the beef and dairy cattle displays which featured the livestock and 4-H Club parades at noon Friday at the eighty-ninth annual Greene County Fair, were awarded respectively to Whitehall farm, Yellow Springs, and the Breezy Hill dairy farm, Madisonville, O.

The Brockert Farms, Atwater, O., captured second prize in the beef cattle display. Runner-up honors in the dairy breed display went to Charles Wheeler, Wapakoneta, O.

Five or six herds of Jersey cattle and about the same number of shorthorns were exhibited.

First prize of $10 and second prize of $5 were awarded for the best beef and dairy herds.

For organization floats in the Boys' and Girls' 4-H Club parade, which also took place in front of the grandstand after the livestock display Friday, first prize of $10 was awarded the Thimble Stitches Sewing Club of Spring Valley; second prize of $5 to the combined food and clothing clubs of Cedarville; third prize of $5 to the New Burlington Busy Bee Sewing Club; and fourth prize of $5 to the Casarcreek Busy Bee Sewing Club.

The Jamestown Jolly Juniors and Yellow Springs Busy Bee sewing clubs also entered floats in the parade.

The floats were each decorated with club colors with green and white predominating. A number of other private autos were also loaded with young club members and it is estimated that more than 200 children participated in the parade.

The cattle judging was in charge of George Martindale, Cedarville, judge of dairy cattle and George Raub, La Rue, O., judge of beef cattle. These men assisted by a Miss Clark, also awarded prizes for the organization floats.

Bringing up the rear of the procession was N. N. Hunter, Jamestown auto dealer and sportsman, astride "Midnight," a coal black donkey. Mr. Hunter, keeping a stiff upper lip, made good his promise to County Commissioner A. E. Beam that he would ride the "jack" in the parade. The donkey was furnished by Mr. Beam.

Mr. Hunter was presented with a vase of flowers taken from the secretary's office by R. U. Bell, treasurer of the fair board. The Jamestown man had difficulty in frustrating an attempt by his "mount" to eat the flowers.

GEORGE A. MURRAY DIES THURSDAY IN BOSTON HOSPITAL

George A. Murray, 31, near Jamestown, prominent Greene County farmer, died at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

He had been a patient in the hospital four weeks, following an operation for tumor on the brain, which was apparently successful. He was believed recovering until he suddenly collapsed early Thursday.

Mr. Murray was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Murray, near Jamestown, and lived in Greene County all his life. He was active in the First Baptist Church, Jamestown, and at various periods served as superintendent of the Sunday School, deacon, treasurer and trustee in the church.

He leaves his widow, and one son, Morris Eugene; his parents, and three brothers, Earl and Howard Murray, of Jamestown and Ray Murray of Xenia.

The body arrived at his father's home late Friday night. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 o'clock at the Jamestown Baptist Church, in charge of the Rev. Robert Allbaugh, Spencerville, O., formerly Mr. Murray's pastor, assisted by the present minister, the Rev. Arthur Campbell. Burial will be made in Jamestown Cemetery.

Should old Ohio be forgot and scenes we left behind?
No! Wherever be our lot we keep them still in mind.
The scenes 'mid which we often roved in childhood's early morn.
The old red schoolhouse on the hill, the cot where we were born.

Then hail the dear old Buckeye State, for go wherever we will,
Whatever be our local fate, we are her children still.
We'll give her every honor due, nor shall our love grow cold,
However much we love the new, we'll not forget the old.

Dear Brother Zell:
I am just in receipt of your invitation to the "Greene County Home Coming." I deeply appreciate the invitation and should be delighted indeed again to meet with the people of Greene County and especially those of Trinity Church where I spent five of the most delightful years of my ministry.

However, I am now nearly seventy-one years old, and while my general health is fairly good my nervous condition is such as to make it quite unwise for me to meet and mingle with crowds of people. Therefore, I must with sincere regret decline your kind invitation. I trust you may have a most delightful "Home-Coming." With all kind wishes to you and to all, I am

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) C. M. Van Pelt.

Artificial Voice

C. F. Lorenz, of Wichita Falls, is the only man in Texas, and one of six in the world (so it is claimed) who can put his voice into his coat pocket after finishing a conversation. His larynx, or voice box, was removed to cure him of a throat ailment and an artificial "voice" was made for him. This is attached to the trachea through an opening in his throat.

Farm Notes

FREIGHT RATES OFF

Farmers of this country will pay less freight on their fertilizer after October 5, as a result of a decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission rendered recently, says W. W. Anderson, of the Greene County Farm Bureau. The rate reduction varies with the distance which the fertilizer is shipped, ranging from 50 cents to $1.20 with an average over Ohio, of a little more than a dollar, he reports.

The Commission's order to lower freight rates on fertilizer resulted from a complaint entered by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation more than four years ago. Mr. Anderson says. It has been the subject of several public hearings, and was finally combined with complaints of other state farm bureaus and of fertilizer manufacturers which were made later.

Farmers of this section have been paying a higher freight rate on fertilizer than farmers of the South and West for a number of years. Mr. Anderson reports. It was this difference in rates that was used as the chief argument in favor of the reduction, coupled with the fact that increased use of fertilizer resulting from the lower price would increase crop yields.
